

Oil Station Dispute Hinges on Zoning Law

Newcombe Oil Company Wants to Remodel Filling Station at Broadway and Delaware Avenue, Removing Present Old House and Erecting Restaurant and Rest Rooms—Residents in Vicinity Object—Public Works Board to Hold Public Hearing.

The question of whether the application of the R. Newcombe Oil Corporation to remodel and improve its present drive-in filling station at the intersection of Broadway and Delaware avenue will be granted or rejected will be decided by the board of public works at a special meeting which will likely be held next week. That was the decision reached by the board at the regular monthly meeting held Thursday evening at the city hall when Judge William D. Brinler appeared for the Newcombe Corporation urging that the application be granted while County Attorney John W. Eckert appeared for Dr. A. H. Mambert, E. T. McGill and four other property owners in the immediate vicinity of the filling station and asked that the application be denied.

One Question Before Board. According to some of the members of the board of public works after they had heard arguments for and against the application the question that had to be decided was whether the present old house on the property was within the business zone or the residential section under the zoning law.

County Attorney Eckert contended that the house stood within the residential district. While Judge Brinler said that if in the preparation of the zoning map someone had arbitrarily drawn a line around the filling station property and not taken in the whole property the Newcombe Corporation should not be made to suffer. He said the house should be included in the business zone because it was used in connection with the business, as employees of the corporation resided in the house.

Up To Corporation Counsel. It was stated that Corporation Counsel James Jenkins was out of town but was expected home this week and the board decided to refer to him the question of whether the house stood within the business or residential district for an opinion and to hold a special meeting in the matter shortly.

File Plans For Station. The Newcombe Corporation filed with the board blue prints showing that it contemplated doing it ahead of the work. The old house on the property was to be torn down and replaced by a brick structure and proposed in its place which would be used as a restaurant and public rest rooms. The filling station was also to be enlarged and several additional pumps installed. It was stated that the plans would make the station one of the finest in the city.

Limit Use Of Premises. County Attorney Eckert spoke at length on the question and said that the residents in the vicinity of the station objected to its being enlarged, and requested that it be limited to its present use. The station was operated day and night and was an annoyance to the neighbors who were kept awake with the noise of customers driving in to have their tanks filled and some would change tires and the pounding on the concrete pavement awoke those in the vicinity.

First Drive-In Station. Judge Brinler said he wanted to call the board's attention to the fact that the filling station at Broadway and Delaware avenue was the first drive-in station erected between Albany and New York, and at the time it was built the corporation had leased some of the land to the city so that the sharp corner at the street intersection could be rounded. The corporation was allowed to carry out its plans for remodeling and improving the station. It expected to do from ten to twenty feet of the corner to the city so that the turn could be widened.

Dr. Mambert Speaks. Dr. A. H. Mambert, one of the property owners who had retained Eckert, was present and said he would like several questions cleared up. The first was how many more houses, if any, the company intended to build. He was informed that it was proposed to install four additional pumps.

Plans 7,000 Mile Tour of States

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Commander Richard E. Byrd plans to start next Thursday on a 7,000 mile tour of the United States in a big Fokker airplane in which he flew over the North Pole.

The big plane is now being reconditioned at the Fokker factory in Haerbroek Heights, N. J. The tour will start from Washington and will be one of the longest ever undertaken by airplane in this country. Commander Byrd is undertaking it in the interest of commercial aviation.

Commander Byrd will be accompanied by Floyd Bennett who accompanied him in the Polar flight, and Lieutenant Brent Balchen, formerly of the Norwegian navy. The flight is sponsored by the Guggenheim Foundation and the Department of Commerce. The first stop will be in New York city. From here the route will be over Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, cities along the Great Lakes to Chicago and then down the Mississippi to Kansas City, St. Louis, and Texas. The return flight will be by way of Salt Lake City and other cities in the Rocky Mountain district, the Pacific coast and return by way of Denver and the Atlantic coast. It is expected to require about six weeks.

Teller & Tappen Sell Business

Teller & Tappen, who have conducted a coal and lumber business in this city for a number of years, have sold out to the Kingston Coal Company. The new owners will continue to operate the yards of the Teller & Tappen firm and will render the same satisfactory service that that establishment has always been known for. Raymond Whitbeck will be manager of the Teller & Tappen yards for the Kingston Coal Company and his many friends will find him ready to care for their requirements as in the past.

The Teller & Tappen yard has been the third addition to the business of the Kingston Coal Company within the past few years. The Thomas O'Hara yard at 237 Foxhall avenue was the first purchased and later the large yard of Watts & Tammam on East Strand was obtained and both are being operated by the Kingston Coal Company at present.

The business that the Kingston Coal Company has just purchased from Teller & Tappen was started 25 years ago by Jerome Palen, now deceased. His heirs sold to Myron Teller and Charles Tappen who formed a partnership and conducted business in a successful manner up until the present time.

North River Presbyterian Meeting. The semiannual meeting of the North River Presbyterian Society will be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Poughkeepsie on October 15 at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. William Dalton will give a report of the Northfield Missionary Conference and Mrs. Tual of Africa, who are the special representatives of the Presbyterian Society on the foreign field, are expected to be present and make the principal addresses.

There was any danger from lightning causing the present tanks at the filling station blowing up. The question was left unanswered by the board.

Well Answered Doctor. Dr. Mambert said he was greatly annoyed at the ringing of the bell on the pump which rang every time a gallon of gas was pumped. He said he had gone personally to see Mr. Newcombe and asked him if the bell could not be eliminated or a softer toned bell installed or the bell muted. Dr. Mambert said the only reply he got was a sneer from Mr. Newcombe.

Refinery Makes Motion. Commissioner Raftery, who resides in the property adjoining the filling station, moved that the application of the Newcombe Corporation be denied, but none of his fellow members of the board seconded the motion.

Next Next Week. It is expected that the board will hold the special meeting next week. Other matters taken up Thursday night were whether to

City to Buy 10 Ton Tractor For Winter Use

Board of Public Works Decides to Add to Snow Removal Equipment—Two Strand Merchants Protest Against Rule That Sidewalks Cannot Be Used to Display Merchandise.

The board of public works Thursday evening decided to purchase a ten-ton tractor for snow removal in the city, and also gave the street committee power to purchase another snow loader if it was deemed necessary. The board also heard how the peanut business of Kingsburg Brothers on the Strand was damaged because they were not allowed to have their peanut roaster on the sidewalk in front of the store, and also heard from Alcon Brothers, who desired to use the sidewalk in front of their store for displaying merchandise.

Needed Ten-Ton Tractor. Commissioner George F. Chandler said that a ten-ton tractor was needed for snow removal work in the city. He said the present snow removal equipment was too light to handle a blizzard as was demonstrated last winter, although Kingston was one of the first cities in the state to have its streets opened to traffic. The only thing that would work in opening the streets after a heavy snowfall was a tractor, and he moved that the board purchase one.

After some discussion the board gave the street committee, of which Dr. Chandler is chairman, power to purchase a ten-ton tractor and also to purchase another snow loader similar to that purchased by the board last year if it was deemed necessary.

Sidewalk For Store Purposes. Abram Alcon of Alcon Brothers, Strand merchants, appeared before the board and said that in 1923 the board had granted him a permit to use part of the sidewalk in front of his store for displaying merchandise. That last week the permit had been rescinded by the board.

Mr. Alcon claimed that business conditions downtown were different from conditions uptown and it was necessary to use the sidewalk on the Strand for displaying merchandise, and he believed the permit that had been revoked should again be put in force and they allowed to use the sidewalk for store purposes.

Referred to Judge Jenkins. Commissioner Amos Van Etten said he did not believe that the board had any power to grant permits to use the sidewalks for a store, and that the matter should be referred to the corporation counsel for an opinion.

The Peanut Business. One of the firm of the Kingsburg Brothers on the Strand was also present at the meeting and wanted permission to place his peanut roaster on the sidewalk in front of their store.

Mr. Kingsburg said the peanut business was not what it used to be when he was allowed to have the roaster on the sidewalk, and intimated that he might be forced to retire from the peanut business unless the request to use the sidewalk for the business was granted.

His request was likewise referred to Corporation Counsel Jenkins for an opinion.

Van Buren Objected. Judge A. H. Van Buren of Washington avenue appeared before the board and said he wanted to object to being forced to pay any assessment for the proposed sewer to be built in that portion of Washington on the ground that his property would not be benefited as he already was connected with a sewer in another street. He also appeared for several other property owners, he said. He filed a written protest with the board. Judge Van Buren said he had no objection to the sewer if he was not called upon to pay an assessment.

Later in the meeting an ordinance calling for the construction of the sewer was tabled on motion of Commissioner Fawcett.

John Street Parking. Residents of John street, between Fair street and Clinton avenue filed a written complaint with the board regarding parking of cars on John street. The communication was referred to the street committee to report at the next meeting.

Pearl Street Sewer. Residents of Pearl street petitioned for the construction of a sewer in the upper portion of the street to connect with Mountain View avenue sewer. It was referred to the city engineer to prepare an ordinance.

Holland Avenue Grade. A petition from residents of Holland avenue asking for a grade on that street and also on Fairview avenue was read and referred to the city engineer to establish grade on those streets.

Electric Signs. Requests to install electric street signs in front of the Masonic Club on Broadway, Fawcett & Davis on Main street, Day's restaurant on Main street, French Dry Goods, 522 Broadway, one at 713 Broadway and another at 515 Broadway were all referred to the superintendent with power.

Next Remove Bells. The Kingston Scrap Iron & Metal Company, which purchased the bells from the abandoned City Hall, are

Conditions Here Perplex Bishop

Bishop Ingram Cannot Understand How Dry Law Was Passed Here—How High Wages Are Paid and Cannot Discern Difference Between Democrat and Republican.

Ames, Iowa, Oct. 1 (AP).—The Right Honorable and Right Rev. Foley Winington-Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, cannot understand how the prohibition law was passed in the United States when so many Americans who go to England complain about it.

The 68 year old churchman, who visited Iowa State College today at the outset of a six weeks' tour of American universities, also expressed his perplexity over several other conditions in this country. He cannot understand how such high wages are paid and yet bring the owners so large a return. Neither can he discern the difference between a Republican and a Democrat.

Bishop Ingram, one of the most democratic prelates ever in the House of Lords, said he expects to come in contact with 100,000 college students during the next six weeks, and tell them the importance of Christianity to a nation.

Epworth League District Institute

The mid-year institute of the third group of the Kingston District Epworth League will be held at Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on October 5, 15, 19, 29 and November 2. This is the fourth year that the institute has been held at Kingston, each year a remarkable increased interest being shown by the leagues in young people's work. The third group includes the following leagues: Saugerties, Phenicia, Woodstock, Glenford, Shady, Wittenberg, Port Ewen, Esopus and Kingston.

The Rev. E. G. Reith is dean of Institute; Miss Hazel Moore, registrar, and Miss Eva Shook, manager. Sessions begin at 6 o'clock p. m. and the close at 9:20 p. m.

The classes of the institute and instructors are as follows: Bible study, the Rev. D. H. Piper; mission study, the Rev. W. Peckham; Evangelism, the Rev. J. C. Coddington; illustrated pictures of church work in Turkey, Mrs. D. I. Score; Life Service, the Rev. E. G. Reith; Citizenship, Harry H. Flemming; Church Pageantry, A. H. Shultz.

Columbus Day Dance. The Christopher Columbus Benevolent Society will hold their seventh annual dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Tuesday night, October 12, with Tony Turck's Rhythm of Music orchestra playing. Dancing will start at 8:30 with no intermission so that will afford all the dancers opportunity to enjoy the full evening without interruption. These dances are run yearly and large crowds come and enjoy the evening with their friends. Tickets have been distributed among the members and can be had from them.

Boarding House at New Paltz. New Paltz, Oct. 1.—Mrs. MacLauri of Brooklyn has sold her large property on Broadhead avenue, this village, to a Mr. Estrope of Jersey City. The new owner after making a number of improvements will conduct an up-to-date boarding house, also a tea room and a gift shop in connection. The transfer and sale was negotiated by D. A. Haabrouck, real estate agent at New Paltz.

Classical Missionary Union. The fall conference of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Classics of Ulster will be held in the Church of the Comforter, Kingston, on Thursday, October 14. The speakers will be Miss Eliza P. Cobb, secretary of the Foreign Board; Mrs. Edward Maynard, president of the Domestic Board; Mrs. John Y. Brock and Miss Jeanie Pieters of Japan.

Crown Street New Clear. The frame office and storeroom building which occupied a goodly portion of Crown street, where the immense rear stage addition has been erected for the Reading Kingston Theatre, has been razed and traffic through that block can now proceed as before.

The trolley road, were served notice to remove the rails from the street each night as fast as they were torn up by the street force.

It was stated that the company had given out the contract to cart away the rails to another concern, and that all of the rails would be removed by next Wednesday.

Superintendent Van Buren said he expected to have all the rails up for the entire length of the Colonial Division by the end of this week.

Lighting Wrentham Street. The lighting committee, improved in favor of installing four street lights on Wrentham street and the Kingston Gas & Electric Company will be notified to install them.

Emergency Street Grade. An ordinance establishing a grade on Emerson street was adopted by the board.

Lewis Avenue Sewer. An ordinance for the construction of a city sewer on Lewis avenue from the existing sewer to the city line was read and adopted by the board.

Next Remove Bells. The Kingston Scrap Iron & Metal Company, which purchased the bells from the abandoned City Hall, are

Tear Gas Needed To Bring Slayer To the Scaffold

Convicted Murderer Attacks Guards Who Attempt to Lead Him To the Scaffold—Is Subdued With Tear Gas After Attack.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 1 (AP).—Tony Vetter, convicted murderer, was hanged at the county jail here early today after he had been overcome with tear gas following an attack on officers who attempted to lead him to the scaffold.

Entering Vetter's cell shortly before the time set for the execution, Deputy Sheriff D. O. Robinson instructed the condemned man to prepare for the death march. Vetter seized a piece of iron pipe which he had concealed in his bed and drove the officer from the cell, following him down the cell corridor brandishing the pipe and a knife made from a large spoon which he produced from his clothing.

Robinson leaped through a door at one end of the corridor and another officer locked it. Confined to the corridor, Vetter shouted insults at the officers and berating the judge who had sentenced him to death, dared any one to attempt to take him to the scaffold.

Other deputies then brought two drums of tear gas and started spraying it into the corridor, driving Vetter to his cell where they were forced to use the gas for 15 minutes before the prisoner dropped to the floor.

His arms and legs were secured as he lay in the cell and he was then carried to the gallows. There he revived sufficiently to renew his shouting as the trap was sprung. He was pronounced dead in six minutes.

Vetter steadfastly maintained his innocence of the shooting of Antonio Fawer here last November, of which he was convicted.

Episcopal Bishop Stirs 'Low' Church

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Announcement of the Right Rev. John Gardner Murray, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, that he will attend the Second Annual Catholic Congress in Milwaukee October 12 to 14 has stirred "low" churchmen to protest that his position should prevent his taking part in what is avowedly a partisan meeting.

The executive committee of the Protestant-Episcopal Society for the Promotion of Evangelical Knowledge has sent a communication to Bishop Murray saying that his presence at the congress would lend aid to those seeking to disrupt the church. Other letters of protest have been sent to the "low" church organs of the Communication, The Churchman, published in New York, and The Chronicle, published in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When Bishop Murray was elected after the Catholic movement had seriously disturbed the church organization a year ago, he declared himself to hold a "middle of the road" attitude on the "high church" or Catholic movement.

"Big Boy" Sent To Penitentiary

William Templeton Given Ninety Days in Albany Institution—Lawson, Negro Bell Hop, Given Suspended Sentence.

William Templeton, a negro known as "Big Boy", who was arrested earlier in the week on a charge of assault in the third degree in attempting to stab David Cardon, another negro, in the back with a jackknife, was sentenced to ninety days in the Albany penitentiary this morning by Judge Shufeldt in police court. Cardon, who was arrested at the same time on a charge of public intoxication, had been fined $10 and sentenced to five days in the county jail. Cardon has served the five days, but as he has not paid his fine as yet he will continue an inmate of the county jail. Both "Big Boy" and Cardon, who is known as "Slick", said they made their home at Jack's place on Mill street.

Woodrow Lawson, a negro bell hop employed at the Governor Clinton Hotel, was arrested Thursday by Officer Welch on a charge of operating an automobile without a license. According to the officer, Woodrow has been driving guest automobiles from the hotel to the garage for some time. Judge Shufeldt in police court today suspended sentence on Woodrow.

Found Body in Randall's Car. Baltimore, Oct. 1 (AP).—Three bandits robbed a postmaster of the Henry Sonneborn Company, clothing manufacturers of $27,000 today and fled in an automobile. Police found the car with the body of a man inside. There was no trace of his companions.

Call for Condition of Roads. Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP).—The superintendent of highways today called for a statement of the condition of state highways, trust companies and private banks at the time of business September 30.

Big Community Meet at Gardiner

Kingston Chamber of Commerce Furnishes Fine Entertainment Program at Annual Reunion of Farm and Home Bureau—Many Matters Discussed.

A meeting of the Ulster County Farm Bureau and Home Bureau was held on Thursday evening in Gardiner. The meeting was a combined one and many topics of interest were discussed by the members of both organizations. The Kingston Chamber of Commerce also had a part in the meeting, consisting of an entertainment which proved of great pleasure and interest to all who were gathered in the hall at Gardiner.

The meeting was in the form of an annual reunion and was presided over by Miss Mary Deyo. Miss Deyo thanked all for their attendance especially the people who came from Kingston to share with the Gardiner residents a pleasant evening and to help in conducting the meeting. Miss Deyo, knowing how the people of Gardiner enjoy singing, then turned the meeting over to H. M. Epper who conducted a community sing. Not only did this jovial man conduct the singing but pleased the audience with witty stories and jokes and gave a very interesting talk on why the community should hold a "sing" more often.

Louis S. Coe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was then given the supervision of the meeting and as soon as the authority was placed in his hands the audience knew that they were about to receive a treat that was worth while. Mr. Coe said it was a pleasure for him to be there and to bring an entertainment that he hoped the people would enjoy and his hopes were not shattered for the program that Mr. Coe prepared received the hearty applause of all.

The Entertainment Program.

The first number that Mr. Coe announced was a song to be sung by Miss Messenger and Mr. Coe said, it was a real Chamber of Commerce number as Miss Messenger is the assistant secretary of the organization. She delighted her audience as she has on many occasions at concerts and over the radio and was obliged to respond to several encores.

The Knatch sisters were very graceful and delighted the audience with their dancing. Their first number was Humoreske and the little girls manifested their ability in no small measure.

Miss Longote, another little girl, and like the Knatch sisters a pupil of Miss Helen Cashion, did a very pleasing dance and delighted her onlookers with special steps that she has accomplished.

Miss Cashion, instructor to the little girls who performed so delightfully, joined Vincent Van Bramer in a dancing novelty and they were kept busy entertaining the audience for some time as their rendition of waltzes and a clog dance sure did draw applause from the audience.

And then came that "local man of magic", Fred Van Deusen who can always be relied upon when entertainment is desired. He made things pass from vision and return at will and the air about the hall was so filled with magic that at one time Mr. Coe disappeared.

Miss Frances Finn was scheduled for the concluding number of the program and in her usual charming way captivated the audience and proved that she was a budding artist in the art of dancing. The response to the entertainment was so great that Mr. Coe arranged a "free for all" Charleston" which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Always Willing to Serve.

Mr. Coe addressed the gathering after the show and said that he was delighted with the way that the Chamber of Commerce was received and he also stated that he wished to see many of the Gardiner residents visit Kingston and assured them that the merchants of this city would be willing to serve them to a degree that even surpassed the delightful program that the business men had made possible.

C. of C. Cooperates.

The meeting was ready for business after having enjoyed the entertainment and Miss Deyo again took charge and called upon Mrs. William Manne to address the gathering. Mrs. Manne reminded the people present that the Chamber of Commerce, composed of the Kingston merchants, was always ready to cooperate with them in any way and said that the success of the Farm Bureau picnic depended much upon the business men of Kingston. She also gave several reports on the progress being made by the Home Bureau in regard to the use of whole wheat flour, course in dietetics and the study of the use of nutritious foods. The presentation of the diphtheria cases discussed and the benefits of toxin antitoxin presented to the meeting.

Endorses Value of Cider. Mrs. J. B. Harrison gave valuable information to the residents of Gardiner in regard to the good that cider can do in a community. She said all the children in Gardiner who are under 12 years of age have been registered by the nurse in charge of the clinic and that the prevention of that dreaded disease should be the aim of every parent. Mrs. Harrison gave an example of a community the city of Boston, that checked the spread of

Col. Williams Drowns When Car Plunges Into Bay

Defendant in Famous "Cocktail" Court Martial at San Diego Drowned When His Car Plunged Into San Francisco Bay—Believed He Lost Control of Car.

San Francisco, Oct. 1 (AP).—Colonel Alexander S. Williams, in charge of recruiting for the marine corps in the western district and who figured as the defendant in the famous "cocktail" court martial at San Diego last April, was drowned today when a large closed car he was driving plunged into San Francisco Bay.

Colonel Williams' body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified by Mrs. Williams. It had been previously tentatively identified by officers, newspapermen and friends from photographs, a signet ring and papers in his wallet.

Mrs. Williams said that on leaving home about 5 p. m. yesterday her husband told her he was going to the Bone Club with some friends for dinner. She said he telephoned her at 8 o'clock last night that he was having a wonderful time and that he would not be home until an early hour in the morning. She said that when her husband was out late he usually drove home by way of the Embarcadero as it was well lighted and he was not well acquainted with the city's streets. She believes he must have lost control of the car or that his vision was obstructed.

Colonel Williams was transferred to San Francisco after he had been convicted of "drunkenness and conduct unbecoming an officer" at a navy court martial.

The charges were brought against him by Brig-General Smedley D. Butler as a result of alleged misconduct of the colonel at a party at his home given in honor of General Butler and at a hotel later.

Fire Board Buys New Fire Truck

A 75-Foot Aerial Truck to Be Installed in Central Fire Station and Present Service Hook and Ladder Truck Placed in Fair Street Station.

The board of fire commissioners has decided to purchase a La France 75-foot aerial ladder automobile truck, fully equipped, which will be installed in the Central Fire Station while the present auto hook and ladder truck will be installed in the Witwyck engine house on Fair street. The new truck will arrive in Kingston early in January. It will be of 110 horsepower and equipped with an automatic aerial ladder, life nets, two thirty-five foot extension ladders and other equipment.

The new truck will cost $15,000. The board also authorized Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy to attend the annual convention of the International Fire Chiefs to be held at New Orleans on October 16 to 20.

LUTHER LEAGUE DISTRICT MEETING AT SAUGERTIES

The Rhinebeck district of the Luther League will hold a rally in the Lutheran Church in Saugerties tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. F. Herish, pastor. A great meeting of Lutheran young people is expected. The Junior Luther League of Trinity Lutheran Church in Spring street, the Rev. William H. Pratsch, pastor, will attend in body, and will be joined by a goodly number of other young people of Trinity who have the intention of organizing a Senior Luther League in Trinity. All are preparing to attend the rally in Saugerties tonight and will meet at the church at 6:45 the latest, to go by autos and auto-trucks. About forty are expected to be present. Others who might be interested are invited to go. There will be room. The young people are expecting to draw inspiration for their home societies from this large gathering in Saugerties. Pastor Pratsch will attend, too.

Aharath Israel Service Tonight.

A religious service in Hebrew and in English will be held this evening at the Aharath Israel Synagogue on Warts street. Rabbi Morris Clark will preach on "The Conflict between Science and Religion." This is the Sabbath on which the Biblical portion of the work is Genesis, Chapter 1, which deals with the story of creation. A comparison will be drawn between that and the theory of evolution; also a comparison between science in general and other phases of religion will be made. Center Beleg and his choir will render the music of the ritual. The service will begin at 8:15 prompt. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Bandy for World Series.

Everything is in readiness for the baseball fans to hear the news of the first game between the New York Americans and the St. Louis Cardinals, on Saturday, at the sporting goods store of C. A. Warren on Fair street. The show window in front has been arranged for the occasion, there being a scoreboard, a list of players of each team and a large radiotele through which the broadcasting of the plays and other incidents will be received and announced.

PICKETS WIN LEGAL BATTLE IN POUGHKEEPSIE
The union pickets of the International Garment Workers' Union on Wednesday won a victory in their legal battle with the Wilkins-Adler Company owners of the non-union plant at 16 Winnikee avenue, Poughkeepsie. The Wilkins-Adler Company had an injunction issued by the Supreme Court of White Plains which prohibited the pickets from patrolling the factory. But this injunction was temporarily suspended by Justice Taylor on Wednesday. The pickets have planned to station representatives at the factory as soon as possible.

Tourists Cause 6% of Accidents
Ninety-four percent of the motor vehicle accidents in New York last year were caused by local drivers, according to a report submitted by Alvan Fisher, a director of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, to the board meeting of that body held in New York last week. Only six per cent of motor vehicle accidents involve cars in interstate traffic, with 51 per cent occurring in the home state, and 53 per cent in the town where the vehicle is owned. These figures are based on the records of 17,000 motor vehicle accidents in the State of Connecticut, compiled by Ethel Usher, in charge of the statistical section of the Department of Motor Vehicles. Robbins B. Groschal is Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of the State. The records likewise show that 18 per cent of the accidents happened to cars when being driven by friends of the owner. Reports from all sections of the country as compiled from records of newspapers, filed with the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, indicate that 29 cities over 100,000 population had fewer motor fatalities for the first seven months this year as compared with last year. The grand total records indicate the accidents for 1932 are a fraction of a per cent above 1931.

Value of Connecticut Records.
"The Connecticut records," states the Macauley report, "are particularly valuable in relation to the question of whether or not accidents are due to local or visiting cars. If the accidents in any state were due to unavoidable conditions or with unfamiliarity with the road, this fact would develop in Connecticut. There is probably no other state in the country, unless possibly Florida or California, where the amount of interstate traffic is as large. This state is not only in the center of a great summer vacation area, but it likewise lies athwart the Boston Post Road and the College Highway. Hence the highways of the state are carrying a vast amount of foreign traffic all the time. Yet at New Haven, for instance, which is a center traffic point from north, east and west, out of 4,500 accidents in the year 1931, only 228 involved cars from outside of Connecticut, and more than 3,000 came from the city itself. One finds a similar situation in Hartford, Danbury, Waterbury and other through traffic points. Where Responsibility Rests. These figures, then, clearly bring out the point that responsibility for traffic accidents is local. It is not the visiting driver who is getting into the difficulty, but the motorist in his home state, and more particularly, in his home town. It is further interesting to note that 60 per cent of these accidents occurred in the day time and 58 per cent were not at street intersections. While the element of carelessness cannot be excused it likewise seems clear that our cities built in the horse age have not yet become well adapted to new means of transportation. We must have: 1. More playgrounds. 2. Better parking facilities. 3. Through highways. 4. Fewer grade crossings. In addition to these, much can be accomplished by a more constructive local pride which will impress each citizen with the fact that his conduct as a motorist is a reflection for good or ill upon his own city. Individual Carefulness. The process of building better cities is necessarily gradual and the need for individual carefulness at this time is particularly acute. It is amazing to note that 18 per cent of the operators involved in motor vehicle accidents were driving the cars of friends. When one takes into account the fact that the average owner is the chief driver of his car most of the time it is apparent that there is a very high percentage of accidents when cars are loaned to friends. It would seem from this data that unfamiliarity with the vehicle may play a considerable part in accidents. On the other hand, almost 20 per cent of the motor vehicles which had accidents, including the motor truck catastrophes, were driven by professional chauffeurs. The percentage in these cases should perhaps be discounted to some degree because where a friend or an employee is involved in an accident there is much more certainty of a report on the situation being made. While the law requires reports of all accidents, it is possible that many are not recorded where only the owner is involved, and where the damage is only slight. In any event, the situation calls for self-analysis on the part of every community and its citizens, and it is clear that the difficulties of the traffic situation are primarily local and can be overcome. Suggestive Features. Certain cities are demonstrating that an improvement can be made. Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles are among the large cities which have a better record for seven months this year than for the corresponding period a year ago. Omaha, Neb.; Bridgeport, Conn.; and Farmington, N. J., had no motor fatalities in July. There are a total of 26 more cities having a perfect record for the month."

Potato Rich in Vitamins
The potato is an important source of vitamin B—the anti-neuritic vitamin, whose lack causes the disease known as beriberi. According to F. J. Lyman and James Blystone of the laboratory of applied chemistry at Ohio university, this essential element is distributed uniformly throughout the potato, and is stable both during cooking and storage. Meager in calories, the white potato supplies about 12 per cent of the American dietary. Mr. Lyman and Miss Blystone have conducted a series of experiments in which they have found that rats thrive and grew at a normal rate on a diet containing as much as 80 per cent potato. When put on a diet of only 40 per cent potatoes from which other foods containing vitamin B were excluded the rats showed a rapid decline in condition, which disappeared as soon as a sufficient quantity of vitamin B was again applied.

New Death-Dealing Device
A "death-coil" instead of a "death-ray" has been discussed before the National Academy of Sciences. The "death-coil" would have been invulnerable to human eyes, but it consisted of a coil of wire just the same, and it killed small fishes and other aquatic animals in vessels of water in less than a minute. By means of an electrical apparatus, high frequency sound waves have been generated at a rate of from 20,000 to 40,000 to the second; this super heat of electricity to human ears is between 20,000 and 30,000. If a beam of these sound waves is directed toward the surface of the water, the surface is heated up in a second. The vibrations heat the water, a rise of nearly six degrees centigrade in one minute having been recorded.

Japs Urged to Drink Milk
Milk is to be introduced in Japan as a means of enlarging the stature of the people of Japan. As the result of an investigation conducted by health authorities, it has been found that the lack in the diet of the bone and teeth building elements, calcium, phosphorus and iron, is a primary contributor to the stunted stature of the Japanese. Milk, which the authorities reported, have been three people who are large, strong and vigorous, and who have reduced their stature, usually have. In no other food, they said, was there so plentiful a supply of the necessary bone-building elements.

WHICH IS DEMOCRATIC?

Without waiting for the verdict of the voters, the Democratic platform declares for the wet side.

Waiting for the verdict of the voters and offering to abide by this verdict, the Republican platform urges everyone to vote on the referendum.

Which is the party of the people, democratic and loyal to the principle of majority rule?

A PRETTY GOOD SCORE.

The Democratic platform claims for the Democratic party all the glory for 58 good deeds therein enumerated, beating the famous 57 varieties by one. All of these good deeds were the result of acts of the legislature in which there was a Republican majority. This is accounted for by a statement that the wicked Republican legislators were coerced into the doing of good deeds by the good Democratic governor of the state.

The same platform charges the Republicans with having committed 14 bad deeds which the virtuous Democratic governor was unable to prevent.

Assuming that the count is right, the showing is not so bad—58 to 14 is a pretty good score in any game, even that of politics or of virtue.

FRANCE'S LEAD IN SPORT.

Time was when the young Frenchman of the prosperous class was supposed to be a mere dandy with no interest in or capacity for manly sport, but for some time a marked change has been noticeable. Now French aviators lead the world, carrying off the records in both altitude and non-stop flying. As if this were not enough distinction for one country, the French have recently captured the lead in tennis also. For several years Suzanne Lenglen has continuously beaten American and English women in tennis, and now comes a Frenchman, Henri Cochet, with power seemingly to topple over with ease our own Tilden, long the champion of tennis. In addition two other Frenchmen, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, have beaten Johnston and Williams who ranked next to Tilden.

An interesting conclusion seems logically to follow France's great forward strides in sport. Though there was truth as well as rhetoric in the saying that France, the deeply scarred battlefield, was "bled white" by the World War, it appears to be also true that in that fiery ordeal young French manhood was roused and incited to effort in the long neglected manly sports. In spite of all its temporarily withering effects, the future may show that to France the war was a blessing in disguise.

THE REFERENDUM.

The prohibition issue will not down. Although there are many other things in life and in politics, the extremists are so zealous and so vociferous in their representations and misrepresentations that the liquor question seems about to eclipse every other thing in the election campaign. For this there is no excuse. A means has been provided by which every voter may express himself on this question, regardless of partisanship or personality of candidates. The referendum is not partisan or personal and is no way mixed up with party or personal matters. Everyone should vote on this referendum according to his own opinion and conscience.

Always there are zealots who are blinded by their zeal and who sincerely believe that the people are in agreement with them. The drys believe that a majority of the people are for prohibition. The wets believe that a majority of the people are against prohibition. If this is a government of the people, the carefully considered opinions of the people should rule and if the representatives of the people are to conform to the will of the majority, rather than to the will of the leader shouters, they must know what the will of the majority is.

For the purpose of eliciting this information the referendum is to be taken, giving every voter an opportunity to vote and be counted.

The votes of the silent, thoughtful, conscientious and sane majority will count for as much as the votes of the shouting extremists. Heretofore all claims have been made by the noisy minorities. The referendum will show which of these minorities of extremists comes nearest to truth in its claim that it represents the sentiments of the majority.

Neither really represents fully anything but its own prejudiced, narrow and abusive self, for wet and dry are but symptoms and manifestations of the real question. Shall sectarian creeds be enacted into civil law and the enforcement of matters of individual conscience be turned over to the police?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

INSURING YOUR HEALTH.

It is but a short time ago that, when you did not feel well, you consulted your physician and he put a thermometer in your mouth, or perhaps you used the thermometer yourself without consulting your doctor. If there was no temperature you figured that you were not sick, and you either felt better about it, or continued to feel miserable despite your normal temperature.

The fact that the temperature was slightly below normal did not enter into your considerations at all, despite its real importance.

Then came the blood pressure apparatus, and if the pressure was very low or very high some abnormal condition existed and treatment given.

Later came the apparatus for testing the amount of work the tissues of the body were performing, even when the body was at complete rest. If for the weight, height, and age of the individual the amount of work was more than normal, that is the tissues were using up more energy and creating more heat than was necessary to do their ordinary jobs in the system, then something had got into the system that was causing this. If the amount of work was less than normal for the individual, then some tissues were not functioning sufficiently.

And now a further step is being taken to test out the condition of the body. This consists in injecting a small quantity of glandular substance under the skin. Within one or two minutes, in a normal person, the blood pressure will gradually rise and be up fifteen to twenty points within ten minutes, returning to normal within an hour. However, in sickness one type of patient will have a lowering of the pressure, whereas another type will have a greatly increased pressure, low blood pressure being found in the majority of patients with diabetes, asthma, and stomach ulcers, whereas high pressure is found in the severe type of goitre, and grave kidney conditions where albumen shows in the urine.

Now what does all this mean? That the "day is coming" when a complete physical examination will include all these tests. Not that a man who is feeling well will be frightened because these tests may suggest some underlying trouble, but that a man will be able to insure his health insofar as that is humanly possible, just as he now insures his life.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.
(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Thrilling Scene Attended the Rescue of the Fugitive Slave Jerry, October 1, 1851.

There had been a very profound feeling on the slavery question in New York from an early date. Abolition sentiment had begun to sweep the free North, and in 1835 an attempt was made by Gerrit Smith to found an abolition society in Syracuse, but unsuccessfully.

During the year 1839, a Mississippi planter named Davenport, with his wife, arrived in Syracuse, and with them a handsome, well dressed young woman named Harriet Powell, who was supposed to be Mrs. Davenport's companion until it developed that she was instead her slave. Harriet was as white as her mistress, but had a taint of negro blood.

Tom Leonard, the colored waiter at the hotel, arranged that Harriet make a break for freedom, and aided her quiet departure during a reception given to the Davenports. She was driven to a farm near Marcellus, where she remained hidden for a week.

Davenport denounced the Syracuse abolitionists and paraded the streets with a bowie knife. He also issued a handbill, offering $200 reward for the return of his slave. Some persons planned her capture for the reward, but she was removed to another hiding place and eventually Gerrit Smith arranged for her safe escort to Canada and freedom.

In May, 1851, a convention of the Anti-Slavery Society was held in Syracuse, at which some very radical resolutions aimed at the Fugitive Slave Law were adopted. Later Daniel Webster visited that city, and on May 26, delivered an address which served only to fan higher the abolition flame.

On October 1, 1851, the Onondaga County Fair was in progress in Syracuse, and a convention of the Liberty Party in session, when C. A. Wheaton, of the Vigilance Committee, rushed into the convention hall, and spread the news that a fugitive slave had been arrested.

The negro was one William Henry, but generally known as "Jerry," who escaped from his owner, John Reynolds, of Missouri, via the "underground railway."

At the time of his arrest on a charge of theft, Jerry was employed in a cooper shop. He was seized, handcuffed and taken before the U. S. Commissioner Joseph F. Sabine, before he realized that he was being held as a fugitive slave.

Church bells spread the alarm and the whole city was quickly aware of what had happened, with the result that a mob was quickly surging about the Commissioner's office.

The Convention promptly adjourned, the delegates proceeding at once to the examination, which was in progress. The office was too crowded and an adjournment was necessary.

This had hardly been announced when several men surrounded the prisoner, still handcuffed, pushed him out of the door and down the stairs, at the same time surrounding the officers to prevent pursuit.

Finding his feet at the bottom of the stairs, Jerry ran down the street, but was captured several blocks distant, thrown into a dray and taken to the police station, when he was further shackled with leg irons and placed under heavy guard.

Both sides obtained additional counsel, and when the hearing was resumed, the crowd outside loudly demanded Jerry's release and began bombarding the building with stones.

Commissioner Sabine adjourned the hearing for the day, after being hit on the head by a large cobble hurled through the window.

The anti-slavery men held a meeting, which was attended by many men of prominence, when Gerrit Smith advocated a forcible rescue as the best possible demonstration of the strength of public opinion against the Fugitive Slave Law. This was agreed upon.

Armed with clubs, axes, crowbars and a heavy beam they smashed their way into the building, and as they attacked the partition of Jerry's cell, Marshal Fitch, of Rochester, fired twice at the mob, but the arm that held the pistol was quickly broken.

The marauders fled and Jerry was carried to a buggy and driven to the home of Caleb Davis, who took in the fugitive, had his iron set off, procured him medical attention, and housed him for four days.

On the evening of October 5 Jerry was driven over the Cierro Plank road to Oswego, where he was put aboard a schooner and thus escaped to Canada.

Thirteen members of the rescue party were indicted, but none punished.

H. S. Students Practice Thrift

The banking system at the high school has been energetically started for this semester and the students are taking a keen interest in the topic of thrift. On Tuesday a total of $229.91 was collected and deposited to the students' accounts, which raises the average from 24.5 per cent, which was attained last week, to 26.6. One room, No. 30, which is in charge of Dr. Boeker, has reached the 100 per cent class. The freshmen who answer roll call in Hall B, deposited $60.52. Room No. 38 has accomplished a feat which is rather remarkable, having deposited a total of $30.42 with only thirteen depositors.

LET GEYSER AND HATHORN MAKE YOU HEALTHIER

Two Natural Health Waters Bottled at State Owned Saratoga Springs

Some health authorities claim that partial digestion and inefficient elimination will, in time, allow so much acid and gas and fermenting foods and injurious waste products to accumulate in the system that an extra strain is put upon heart, nerves, muscle and mind. Then worry, weariness, indigestion, headaches, gas and sour stomach may follow.

Every season hundreds of thousands of tired, overworked people journey to Saratoga Springs to enjoy the baths and drink Geyser and Hathorn waters. Millions buy these same waters from their home town stores and drink daily before breakfast and at meals and before retiring. Geyser, the delicious, sparkling, anti-acid table water. Hathorn eliminates the acids, gases and poisons that have accumulated. Geyser helps to prevent their accumulation by neutralizing acidity and other causes of indigestion and sourness. Both these State Owned sparkling, pleasant tasting waters are now having a very wide demand from people who know how beneficial they are.

Insist on the genuine "State Owned," at Restaurants, Hotels, Clubs, Publicans.

Sold in Best Grocery Co.'s Store and by other high-class dealers.

IN BED

Did you ever know that when you are sick in bed in the daytime that your toys and pictures and books and pencils play hide-and-go-seek?

They hide and you are the one who must look for them.

They won't come forth until you find them. Nor will they give any sound of where they are.

You have to be in bed all day because you are sick and yet you aren't very sick so you take lots of things and have them beside you—

Haven't you ever noticed how you have to begin and hunt for them?

The bigger things don't always join in the game.

"You keep hunting for things and you have to keep hunting quite hard even though you know that the things must be on the bed."

They get in between the ridges and hide under folds in the spread, and they fall down into hollows which you make when you move around.

This was how it happened in the first place.

There was a little girl named Clip-Clip-Clip.

At least that was the name every one used when they spoke to her.

Her friends would say to her home and would say to her mother, if they didn't see her around:

"Is Clip-Clip-Clip in?"

"No," her mother would answer, "she has clipped off somewhere."

Well, it was just a foolish name, of course, but somehow it did seem to suit her.

She was always going off at a clip here, there, or somewhere else.

Now Clip-Clip-Clip was always so strong and so well but one day she had a feeling that she wasn't quite up to clip-clip-cliping around that day.

So her mother said:

"Clip-Clip-Clip, you'd better go to bed and rest today, so you'll feel all well tomorrow."

"There is going to be a fine picnic tomorrow and you want to be all well for it."

So Clip-Clip-Clip went back to bed, but she took all sorts of her belongings there, too.

Now Clip-Clip-Clip's belongings were not used to seeing Clip-Clip-Clip in bed.

Only, of course, when she was asleep, and when they were resting.

So they decided to use their wits and think of something to do when she was in bed that would amuse her and yet would not make her have to get up and would not get her too tired.

The first thing they thought of was to play hide-and-go-seek in the folds of the bedclothes, but in the hollows of the bed they found her pillows and blankets.

Clip-Clip-Clip kept looking for one thing and no sooner had she found it than she had to look for something else.

By the day quite a lively one—playing with her belongings, drawing pictures, scribbling, making up games and playing other games that had been made up by others.

That was the way the hide-and-go-seek game started when Clip-Clip-Clip spent that day in bed when she did not feel so very well before the picnic.

Ever since then toys and belongings, games and pencils have all played hide-and-go-seek when their owners have had to spend a day in bed.

It all started with Clip-Clip-Clip.

That was ever and ever and ever so long ago.

Really I couldn't begin to tell you how long ago it was, but a very long time I can assure you.

Fight in Sight

Jimmy did not get along with Billy, who lived next door, and a fight was usually in order. One day Jimmy was all dressed up, sitting on his porch waiting for his mother to take him away, when his neighbor strode over and commenced to use his wagon, etc.

Knowing it he got into trouble he could not go with his mother. He watched for awhile and when he felt he could not keep out of trouble any longer he went to the fence between the yards, calling, "Mrs. B., come and get your Billy before I fight."

Demonstrated

Mac—So Freddie is treating you harshly?

Kae—Yes, and when I asked him what a squeeze play was, I think he put one over on me.

Women Severe

"One Side the Fair sex far more severe than the old-fashioned jury," was the opinion expressed by Mr. Herbert Field during a discussion in the British house of commons.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1926, Western Newspaper Union)

The things that haven't been done before are the tasks worth while today. Are you one of the flock that follow, or are you one that shall lead the way?

Are you one of the timid souls that quail at the jeers of a doubting crew, or dare you, whether you win or fail, strike out for a goal that's new?

THE FESTIVE BOARD

In homes where each meal is an occasion and all food is prepared and served by those who love to cook and are vitally interested in those who will eat it, there is no common food.

Hamburg Steak. — Do not buy the chopped meat which may or may not be good; buy a cheap cut from the leg or round, put it through the meat grinder, adding a little sweet or pork; season with salt, pepper, onion juice, a pinch of cloves and form into flat cakes. Broil or cook in butter and serve with a brown sauce. Baked potatoes and creamed onions go well with this dinner.

Chicken With Corn. — Scrub and clean a fowl well with soda in the water cut up for frying, roll in seasoned flour and fry brown in hot fat. Lay the pieces in a baking dish, cover with milk and simmer slowly for two hours or longer, depending upon the age of the fowl. Season well when half cooked and add a cupful or more of corn. The fresh corn cut from the cob is best though the canned will serve. Pour the corn and gravy around the chicken.

A can or less of corn added to any stuffing for roast meat makes a most tasty forcemeat.

Orange Sticks. — Cream one-fourth cupful of butter, add three-fourths cupful of sugar, beat until smooth. Add two beaten egg yolks, one-fourth of a cupful of orange juice and the grated rind of half an orange. Mix and add three-fourths of a cupful of flour, add one-fourth cupful of corn starch and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add to the first mixture and fold in two beaten egg whites. Grease a shallow pan, sprinkle with chopped almonds or walnuts, pour in the batter and bake twenty-five minutes. Remove from the pan and cut into narrow strips. Cover with orange icing.

Daylight in the Kitchen Any Time

When sunny daylight streams in through kitchen windows, work is pleasant and household tasks run smoothly.

But on stormy days and during evening hours, even the most attractive kitchen becomes gloomy and unhandy if the lighting is inadequate.

You can always have a cheerful kitchen with a clear, shadowless light in every nook and corner. The Daylight Kitchen Fixture now offered on special terms brings this daylight convenience into your kitchen any time.

Eleanor Gunn On Fashions

SUCH INFANTILE COLORINGS AS PINK BLUE AND STRAWBERRY PINK RETURN TO FAVOR. WHILE SOFT NAVIES OFF-SET THE TENDENCY TOWARD BRIGHTER TONES FOR DAY TIME

There is an old adage about coming events casting their shadows before them, and so, by the same token, as our Irish friends have it, the shadow of the large sleeve crosses our path. Way back in the days of the "nifty nineties," cartoonists and the world at large had a hearty laugh over balloon sleeves.

Remembering their ludicrous aspect, designers have adroitly gone about making sleeves larger by other means than the very obvious crinolines and balloon route. The new full sleeves are acceptable, even welcome, because only on occasions are they extreme. They tend to balance the new silhouette and to add grace to the prevailing trend toward graceful and charming fashions. Even in col-where, it seems reasonable to suppose that there should be another standard for the night, something to offset both the ultra-sophisticated black and the blatant tones in which the world now walks out. The answer on the plea for distinction is seemingly pale blue.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A One Piece Dress With New Features.

5511.—Figured silk and taffeta are here combined. The model shows a new form of plait stressing width at the hips. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches bust measure. A 25 inch size it made as illustrated will require 5 1/2 yards of 60 inch material together with 3/4 yard of contrasting material for facing on collar. Width of dress at the lower edge is 2 1/2 yards.

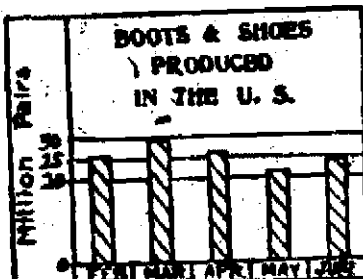

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any person on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Fall and Winter 1926 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Shoe Workers Less Efficient.

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 1.—(Special)—Many cities in New England (in particular) during the past two years have seen considerable discontent among shoe workers. The matter of wages has been the reason in most cases. To a larger extent than most people realize, has this been the cause of much of the shoe business moving out of these old places in New England more to the south and especially the west. This has been a matter of grave concern, for the shoe business (apart from the textile business) has been a powerful and wealthy New England industry in the past—forming the very backbone of several cities.

In this connection it becomes interesting to note that according to recent figures compiled in Washington by the U. S. government, the efficiency of boot and shoe workers last year (taking the country as a whole) was not too good. They were less efficient, apparently, than in 1921-22 or 23 although very slightly better than in 1924.

This is in sharp contrast to the steadily rising efficiency of labor in such as the paper and pulp industry recently discussed in this column.

DRY BROOK.

Dry Brook, Sept. 30.—Hilla Fairbairn traded his Dodge car with Garner Whipple, Jr., for a motorcycle.

Louie Scalan and party of friends from Jersey City are spending some time at his summer home, "The Shack".

Harold Baker of Margaretville spent several days at the bedside of his foster father, G. C. Whipple, who died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur White.

There was no school in either Seeger or Mapledale on Thursday or Friday of last week as both teachers were attending teachers' conference at Kingston.

Reginald Todd is driving a new Star roadster.

Garner Whipple, a life-long resident of this place, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur White, on Saturday, September 25. He had been in failing health for some time and was obliged to sell his farm and retire. He was one of the most active members of the M. E. Church, having been class leader and Sunday school superintendent for many years. Funeral services were held at the M. E. Church Wednesday, the Rev. Lincoln R. Long officiating. The many beautiful floral pieces showed the high esteem in which he was held. He was a man of high integrity and was always active in all things pertaining to upbuilding of the community.

Mrs. Clarence Kille of Cooper, Wyo., Mrs. William Austin, Burlington, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. John Warren and daughter and Mrs. William Kelley and son, Judson Warren, of Kingston were among the out-of-town people who attended the funeral of G. C. Whipple.

TWO RED HOOK MEN TAKEN TO SING SING.

Richard Dubois of Red Hook, who is to serve seven years in prison for the death of his wife on a manslaughter charge, and Harry Stickle of the same place, who will serve eight years for assault in the first degree, were taken to Sing Sing Prison on Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Hicks and Ebbecke, accompanied by Jailer Homer Flagler. The trip was made by automobile and both men, who were shackled to the officers, appeared morose and unmoved.

Prohibition Vote In Eight States at November Poll

Voters to Have Opportunity to Pass on Enforcement by Means of Popular Referendum—Question in Illinois Same As in New York.

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP).—Voters in eight states, at the November election, will have an opportunity to pass upon prohibition. The states are California, Colorado, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin.

In New York, Illinois and Wisconsin, the referendum is on the question of asking congress to amend the Volstead Act.

Would Amend Volstead.
New York and Illinois vote on the same proposition: "beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states." In Wisconsin, the proposition says "beer for beverage purposes of an alcoholic percentage of 2.75." In New York the legislature passed a bill to place the question on the ballot. In Wisconsin the proposal was adopted by joint resolution of the legislature. In Illinois, the referendum was initiated by petition. The question in California is whether to repeal the Wright act, the state enforcement law, adopted by the people at a referendum in 1922.

Depend On Federal Law.
In Colorado, the question will be submitted as a proposal to amend a section of the state constitution enabling the legislature to provide for manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, such amendment to be inoperative so long as in conflict with the laws of the United States. The Missouri vote will be on the question of repealing the state enforcement laws passed in 1923. The Montana proposition is on the question of repealing all state laws relating to liquor control, except the law forbidding sale of liquor to minors.

The Nevada referendum is in the form of a memorial to congress to submit the Eighteenth Amendment again to the states.

W. C. T. U. Active.
In these eight states, the W. C. T. U. with 600,000 members, has laid plans to concentrate a fight to get a "100 per cent dry vote." In Illinois, George E. Brennan, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, who has advocated modification of the Eighteenth Amendment in his campaign speeches, is being actively opposed by the drys. In New York, the drys are backing F. W. Cristman, independent and dry opponent of Senator Wadsworth.

Amazing Lumber

not cut from trees saves 1/3 your fuel money

Yet it adds little or nothing to building costs. Celotex will also keep your home cooler in Summer . . . warmer in Winter.

Careful tests by heating engineers show that from 25% to 35% of furnace heat is needlessly wasted through solid walls and roofs.

That is because wood lumber, masonry and other usual wall and roof materials, when used alone, offer too little resistance to the passage of heat and cold.

This great waste of fuel can now be stopped! An amazing heat-stopping lumber is available for every home, new or old.

This amazing lumber is Celotex. It is not

How Celotex is used in both old and new houses

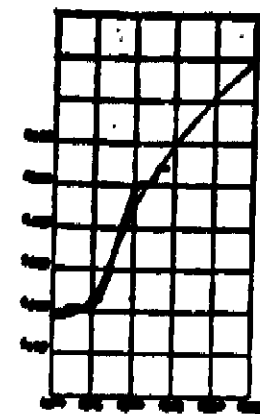

AS SHEATHING
Celotex supplies the insulation needed back of brick, wood or stucco exteriors.

UNDER PLASTER
On inside walls and ceilings, plaster is applied directly to the surface of Celotex.

IN THE ROOF
Celotex applied over or under roof rafters gives protection where it is most needed.

Cost of Lumber and Celotex Celotex shows a steady increase in value over time, while lumber shows a steady decrease. This is because Celotex is made from waste material and is not cut from trees.

cut from trees, but manufactured in broad, strong boards from the tough fibres of cane. It is enduring . . . scientifically sterilized and waterproofed. Celotex is stronger in walls than wood lumber and many times better as insulation. Wind and moisture can not penetrate it. It quiets noise.

COSTS LITTLE or nothing to use. Unlike ordinary insulation, Celotex is not an extra item in building. Wherever used, it replaces other materials, adding insulation at little or no extra cost.

With the walls and ceilings or roof of your house covered with Celotex a smaller, less expensive heating plant and smaller radiators will keep you comfortable. And year after year, Celotex will save from 25% to 35% of your fuel bill!

NEW COMFORT for old houses. In houses already built, a big measure of this comfort and economy is being secured by lining attics and basements with Celotex.

Let us tell you more about Celotex before you build or buy.

Next Winter Will Be Severest Ever Known, Forecaster Warns

CHICAGO, June 10 (United Press).—Forecasted climatic changes, which will affect crop production and human welfare throughout the world, are tucked up the weather man's sleeve for the next few years, according to Herbert J. Brown, ocean meteorologist and long range weather forecaster.

Next year will be without a summer and nations will be forced to return to wartime food conservation to stave off starvation, Mr. Brown declared.

"We will have the severest winter in 1926-27 that the North American Continent has ever known," he said.

Sunny Southern California is due for a much colder winter and spring and there will be a marked increase in seasonal rainfall, his predictions promise.

Heavy frosts in the late spring and early fall will nip the corn belt, he forecasts.

Brown, who has established a wide reputation as a long range forecaster in the last three years by hitting close to dead center with many of his long shots, lectured last night before the College of Scientific Price Forecasting.

He offered evidence to show how he could handicap the ordinary weather forecasting bureau with a year or two and still win out in a weather prognostication race. It's just a simple trick of studying the changes in solar radiation and its effect in changing the surface temperature over the ocean, he declared.

Little Odds Laid On Outcome of World Series

Yankee Supporters Point to the Advantage in Experience and Cardinal Backers Claim Beliefs About Fighting Spirit.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Baseball's big spectacle, the 1926 world series, dominated the sports world today with the St. Louis Nationals on the threshold of their first championship struggle opposed by the New York Yankees.

Speculation as to the outcome appeared to be about evenly divided. Supporters of the Yankees gained comfort in the fact that their favorites will have the advantage in experience as they are now entering upon their fourth world series. However, the Yankees were crowned world champions but once.

Backers of the Cardinals cloaked their beliefs of a world title for St. Louis about the fighting spirit of the players which carried them to the foremost pinnacle in the National race in what had developed to be an uphill battle at the finish.

Contrast of the final games of the season between the clubs was also taken into consideration. "Shortly after mid-season, the New Yorkers had run up an 11 game advantage on their closest competitors but a slump at the close of the schedule disclosed the lead had been wasted away at times to a margin of only one and one half games.

On the other hand the Cardinals exhibited consistency in the campaign for premier honors and in the final days of the league scramble managed to weather repeated challenges set forth by opponents. Again, St. Louis has tasted its first championship after 38 years of waiting and the enthusiasts look for a spurt to carry off victory in the impending classic.

While the American League club's rosters look to Babe Ruth to furnish the batting thrills, St. Louis also boasts a heavy hitter, Rogers Hornsby, the player-manager, often referred to as the "Rajah" of batters.

As far as the baseball dope from the managers of the major league clubs are concerned, the American Leaguers naturally are selecting the Yankees to come out on top in the final reckoning while the National pilots are pulling for the Cards.

Some wagering firms along Wall Street had the Yankees billed as favorites at 6 to 5 but many others had both clubs down on an even basis in the money.

Who the starting pitchers will be tomorrow when the first game of the series starts at 1:30 p. m., remains in doubt. Herb Pennock or Urban Shocker were likely to receive the call for mound duty for the Yankees while "Wee Willie" Sherdel or Grover Alexander were regarded as possibilities for the pitching burdens of the Cardinals.

Baseball Commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis set at rest reports as to whether or not resin would be at the disposal of the pitchers. A resin bag will be behind the pitcher's box during each game Landis said, available for use at any time.

5 Home Games for Yellow Jackets

The Yellow Jackets practiced by electric light Thursday evening. Coach Olson putting the men through an effective signal practice alongside the Armory on the parking grounds. For an hour and a half the gridders drilled in preparation for the game with Wappingers Falls, Sunday, the men exhibiting much spirit and interest in their work as they went through numerous plays.

Practice Tonight. The coming match will be played in Wappingers Falls on the baseball field, being scheduled to start at 2:45 p. m. Practice will be held again tonight under the electric lights at 6 o'clock.

Five Home Games. Five home games are on the schedule of the Yellow Jackets in the Hudson Valley Pro League. The first home match is scheduled for October 24 when Beacon plays at the Fair Grounds. Manager Redhead is also searching for a pro team with which to stage a match at the Fair Grounds on Thanksgiving Day.

The season's schedule is as follows: October 2—Kingston at Wappingers. October 10—Kingston at Middletown. October 17—Kingston at Poughkeepsie. October 24—Beacon at Kingston. October 31—Hudson at Kingston. November 7—Poughkeepsie at Kingston. November 14—Kingston at Hudson. November 21—Wappingers at Kingston. November 28—Middletown at Kingston.

JANE DARWIN FORCED TO ABANDON CHANNEL SWIM

Dover, Eng., Oct. 1 (AP).—Jane Darwin, the English girl who started on a swim from Cape Gris-Nez across the English Channel to England yesterday afternoon, was forced to quit at 7:53 o'clock this morning when three miles off Dover. She had been in the water 16 hours and 31 minutes.

Although Miss Darwin made good progress throughout the greater part of her swim, she became numb owing to the cold water as she neared the English coast.

Cardinals and Yankees Are Well Matched

Where Yankees Have the Edge in One Department the Cardinals Are Able to Show an Advantage to Offset It in Another.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Stock taking of the merits and demerits of the principals in the world series, opening tomorrow, indicates that they are well matched, as contending champions should be. Where the Yankees have an edge in one department, the Cardinals are able to show an advantage to offset it in another, making the ever-present "it" the big factor in the ultimate decision. An injury to a star may throw all the machinery out of gear.

Experts, in the main, agree that O'Farrell, expected to do all the catching for the National League entry, has more equipment than either Severide or Collins, the Yankee receivers.

The former Cub, however, is the only catcher of outstanding class available for Cardinal service, and should he be injured, Vick, the sub, on the face of available returns, will not be able to cope with either Hank or Pat.

Variety in plenty is offered in the many pitchers ready for duty. Each team has a star able to display any wares the moment seems to demand. There are fast ball artists for the dark days, slow ball servers to baffles the free swingers, and plenty of curves for any who may not like the "hooks".

Each club has one or more pitchers who need plenty of rest between games and neither manager will be able to put their names in a hat and draw them out for service as a lottery.

Gehrig and Bottomley, at first base, seem evenly matched on their season's play. Hornsby, in spite of managerial cares, has compiled a better record than Lazzeri at second base and Lester Bell has outpointed Joey Dugan. Koenig displays a slightly better batting average than Thelenow but both are inexperienced. All the information the shortstops have of world series play has been communicated and not conferred.

If an advantage shall be conceded to the Cards on the infield, it must be taken away when the calculations are extended to the outfield. In Ruth, Combs and Meusel, the American Leaguers present a trio of outposts without a better all around record of performance than can be mustered by Southworth, Douthitt, and Hafey, good as they are.

In reserve strength the Yankees may be better fortified than their rivals. Paschal has alternated with Combs during a portion of the season and Carlyle furnishes a constant threat as a pinch hitter. The Cardinals have Holm as an outfield reserve, but Blades, a fast man and capable batsman, will not be able to play in the outfield, although in an emergency he can pinch hit.

Big Golf Tourney On Liberty Links

The Sullivan County Golf and Country Club at Liberty is shortly to become the golf mecca of central and eastern New York state for a professional tournament to be held Columbus Day, October 12.

Since early spring, when the course was first reopened, visitors have been flocking to it to try their hand at the place where the crack pros will compete for cash prizes next month.

The Sullivan County Golf and Country Club is located practically in the center of the "Playground of the Metropolis." This course is located on the highest point in Sullivan county and is incidentally the highest course in New York state.

The course, in the belief of those who have played it, will tax the skill of all the contestants. It is a nine hole course laid out amid rolling hills affording abundant natural hazards and calls for accurate tee shots and super-line second shots, in order that one may keep out of trouble. This line course has never been played in par and it is hoped that this contest will see someone make it in par.

This course was laid out by McCarthy & Raynor, well known golf experts, and it is a fitting monument to their ability. Mr. Raynor expects to be present and the Yabandashia Club of Utica, N. Y., will also be represented as well as Cooperstown, N. Y.

Pros from any club in New York state are eligible and also anyone playing professional golf. All entries must be sent to the Sullivan County Chamber of Commerce, Monticello, N. Y., before October 4. The cash prizes are: First prize, $199; second prize, $59; third prize, $25.

Sidelights of The World Series

(By The Associated Press.)

The New York Yankees have voted full shares of the world series receipts to all the eligible. Bill Schiff, utility catcher, was voted a three fourths share as was Doc Woods, the trainer, and Mark Roth, traveling secretary of the club. Eddie Bennett, the bat-boy who had been with the Yankees since they won their pennant in 1921, was voted $100. Until he had been voted a share in the spoils, Schiff had the distinction of being on two championship teams without rating in the money. He was awarded to the Toronto Internationals in August and recalled by the Yankees just before the International season closed.

The influx of newspapermen to report the world series is on in earnest. Headquarters have been established at the Hotel Commodore. More than 400 sporting writers are estimated to be at work on the series.

Major league representatives will gather at the Roosevelt Hotel tonight to draft ballplayers for the 1927 season. Minor league material will be paraded for prospective bargaining before the session of the 15 teams.

Krippebush, Sept. 30.—The Sunday school picnic which was held on September 21, was a complete success. The sum of $75.13 was cleared and handed to the Sunday school treasurer. The quilt which was made and donated to the church by Mrs. Jane Van Demark and which the ladies of the Sunday school helped fill with 700 names, was sold to Herbert A. Davis for $5. The proceeds were presented to the church treasurer by the ladies of the Sunday school. All wish to thank the lodge members who so kindly donated the hall and all others who helped in any way to make this such a success.

The revival meetings which have been held in the church will be continued Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. Friday evening being the last.

Important Grid Games Saturday

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Gridiron warriors staged at attention today awaiting King football's command to advance in full force into the 1926 campaign. While many college squads have been drifting into action during the past two weeks, the bigger eleven have been mobilizing for opening engagements on Saturday.

Heading a heavy card which puts all the college teams of the east into the fray are the tussles of the "Big Three" and intercollegiate meetings bringing together the Navy and Purdue at Annapolis and a Detroit invasion on the Army at West Point. The Naval Academy has displayed a powerful attack in practice in preparation for Purdue. The Indiana team was holding a brief workout at Annapolis today. Coach Jones of the Army had his squad through a hard drill yesterday, and a light practice period today completed the drive for the tilt with Detroit.

Prospects of Yale concentrating on a passing game were in evidence. The Blue is well supported with backs but needs strengthening along the line. Yale stacks up against Boston University at New Haven in its initial clash.

Harvard faces a hard battle with the Geneva at Cambridge. The Geneva eleven held Cornell to a six point score last Saturday furnishing one of the surprises in early season struggles. Princeton meets the champion of last year's "Little Three" Amherst, at Princeton.

Semi-Finals in Women's Golf

Haverford, Pa., Oct. 1 (AP).—A new national women's golf championship will be crowned at Merion tomorrow.

Glenna Collett has been dethroned, and today her conqueror, 20-year-old Virginia Wilson of Chicago, faced Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia in one of two matches that will produce the title round finalists.

The other semi-final today brought together two New Jersey women, Mrs. Courtland Smith, recent winner of the championship in her home state, and Mrs. Wright D. Goss of Short Hills.

Mrs. Stetson was expected to furnish vigorous opposition to the march of Miss Wilson. The Philadelphia woman brought off consistently sound golf all the way yesterday to overwhelm Edith Cummings of Chicago, 6 and 5. She was out in 42 as against Miss Wilson's 46 in the Collett match, while her incoming score closely paralleled the difficult par of the Merion course.

Notable Changes Made in Meaning of Words

Of the great mass of words in the so-called Anglo-Saxon tongue which pass current today as English, less than one-twentieth are entitled to rank as Anglo-Saxon, writes Dr. F. H. Vizetelly. So far is the English language from being Anglo-Saxon tongue that it is the most composite language known today. In none other do foreign words play so important a part, and by none other have they been assimilated in so great a number. From the very beginning the settlers on Britain's shores forced their various dialects on the natives, and their conquerors were not slow in following their example.

That the language is in a constant state of mutation can be shown conclusively by many words the meanings of which have varied as the years rolled on. The word agony, for instance, was used originally to designate the contortions or twistings of the body, resorted to by athletes and wrestlers in public contests or exhibitions of feats of strength. The word came to us from the Greek agos, an assembly, or a place of contest, from ago, to assemble.

In early English, an agony was a violent contest or struggle, and a few years ago it was used to mean "the fad or fashion of the day," thus agony became synonymous with "style," and those who followed the style had ever ready on their lips the burning question, "What's the agony?" But in the course of the transition from one meaning to the other, the word itself assumed a third and a much more spiritual and expressive sense, and came to connote "anguish," that is, intense suffering and excruciating pain.

What will the bachelor girls think when they are informed that the term bachelor owes its origin to the Latin bacca, a cow? And as for the "girl" part, that is an evolution from gerle as used in the "Vision of Piers Plowman," by William Langland, written about 1372, in which the term designates "boys." In middle English, girl was sometimes used indiscriminately to mean a young person of either sex. Years ago a folk-etymologist traced this word to the Anglo-Saxon, cowi (he-er), a m. . . later corrupted to churl, a vulgarian.

Originally bachelor embraced both sexes, and Ben Jonson, when writing of a certain flourishing beauty whom he dubbed the "Magnetic Lady," said: "We do not trust your uncle; he would turn you a bachelor still, by keeping your portion; And keep you not alone without a husband. But in a churlish."

License Plates Belong to State

Albany, Oct. 1.—Charles A. Harnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, in a statement issued today, calls attention to the provision of law which makes the automobile number plates, issued annually, the property of the state while they are valid, and declares that many owners of motor vehicles overlook this fact. The issuance of number plates, the law provides, conveys to the recipient only "the right to use the same lawfully."

"If a motor vehicle," the law continues, "for which number plates have been issued, is dismantled, junked or abandoned during the period for which such number plates are valid, the owner of such vehicle shall forthwith return such number plates to the commissioner at the expense of the state."

Commissioner Harnett says that frequently when automobiles are dismantled the owners fail to remove and return the plates to the commissioner, which is a violation of the Motor Vehicle Law.

Introducing Imported Hosiery

We take pleasure at this time of introducing to our many friends and customers a very fine line of Imported Cashmere, Wool and Lisle Full Fashioned Hosiery for ladies and men.

Many new and attractive patterns are shown and the introduction price on each lot is considerably less than goods of the same quality are usually sold for.

Our windows are now showing a few of the many new designs of these goods. We will be pleased to show you the entire line, in the store at your convenience.

Sporty, striking patterns for the High School Misses and Fellows that are "knockouts". More conservative patterns for their elders.

While on the hosiery subject, let us also call your attention to our regular lines of Ladies' Silk Hosiery that have been sold by us to an increasing number of satisfied customers each year for years.

Our $1.50 Ladies' Silk Hosiery is made of 12 strand pure thread silk (no artificial silk is used in their construction) with double heels, toes and tops of long, staple, extra wearing quality of mercerized yarn.

Our $2.00 line of Ladies' Silk Hosiery are full fashioned, pure thread silk from tip of toes to top of hose. These come in the newest of shades in both service and sheer weights. The greatest $2.00 values in the hosiery market.

For the men we also have the pure thread silks at 75c. Silk and lisle and silk and rayon socks in fancy patterns at 50c and 75c., and lisle hose at 50c a pair as well as a good quality of cotton socks at 25c a pair.

Wavy—Curly Glossy Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The thousands who see me daily on the stage know how my hair waves and flows. It seems doubly abundant because of the curl. Nearly every girl and woman who sees it would like to have her hair like mine.

But I never go to a hair dresser. I have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply a fair dress which experts made for me. Neither you nor I will probably ever see anything else to compare. It makes the hair curly, keeps it in place and gives it a lovely sheen.

This hair dress is now known as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. All toilet counters supply it at 75c per bottle. It will bring you added loveliness more quickly than anything else I know. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Vincent Richards Also Turns "Pro"

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Vincent Richards, youngest of America's tennis "Big Four" and hitherto regarded as the cornerstone of future Davis Cup hopes, has turned professional, joining the pioneer group headed by Suzanne Lenglen, and sponsored by Charles C. Pyle.

Richards's departure from amateur ranks, announced unexpectedly last night at a dinner given in Lenglen's honor on board the liner Paris, marked the completion of an international quartet attracted to the Pyle professional banner. The others are Lenglen, Paul Feret, fourth ranking star of France, and Mary K. Browne, former American champion.

"I had two alternatives," Richards declared in explanation of his move. "Either I had to quit amateur tennis and make a living for my wife and child or seize the opportunity to turn professional. I accepted the latter because I felt it gave me a chance to profit legitimately by my tennis ability. Furthermore I am convinced that professional tennis has a sound future and that its influence on the game will be for the best."

Unusual Episode

"Saw a funny thing yesterday, as I was coming here on the train," related Sandstorm Smith of Rampage. "A young couple across the aisle from me talked about going to Kay See, and acted like they might have been just married. When the train came to Mooraw, back down the road a piece, the young man went out on the car platform, apparently to look at something, and a bunch of young fellows rushed around the corner of the depot and yanked him off from the train."

"Did they know him?" inquired a hearer.

"I don't know. The last thing I saw four of 'em had him by the corners and were bumping him against the depot, like they either knew him or had heard of him, and the young lady, that I judged to be the bride, had fainted."—Kansas City Star.

Picnic! Ye God!

Another farm institution is passing. A new invention which threshes grain as it cuts has made hundreds of threshing machines useless in the West. At the same time it has removed from farm life one of its happiest institutions.

In spite of the hard labor which it involved both for men and for women the threshing season was the happiest of the year for the rural communities. For every farmer it marked the fruition of a season's labor, the pay day of the year. When it came the biggest and best meals the American housewife could provide were served. For the youth on the farm the threshing season was a continuous picnic.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Elderly Twins

The birthday of the oldest living twins in the United States has become something of a fête day in Mercer county, Ohio, peopled by the festival loving German and Alsatian immigrants and their descendants. The twins are Mrs. Margaret Konrath, who lives near Coldwater, a few miles from Celina, and Mrs. Catherine Petot, of Loudenville, Ohio. They were ninety-two on July 20. The twins came to America from their home in Niederheim, Alsace, in 1864. They do not boast they expect to reach 100 together, but admit "they wouldn't be surprised."—Indianapolis News.

Dumb Luck

"I thought you told me you were experienced!" a much-shaken old gentleman spluttered as he crawled from the wreck of his handsome new car, which his chauffeur had just wrapped around a tree.

"I am," asserted the chauffeur. "Why, I drove three years for an officer during the war and was wounded every year."

"Wounded? Only wounded?" smarted his employer disgustedly. "If George, he must have been a rotten shot or he'd have got you the first year!"

Reward for the Bantam

Blanche, age three, has a little bantam hen to which she has become much attached. Recently the bantam was found to have stolen her nest and was sitting on eleven eggs. In a few days the eggs hatched out and Blanche saw the little hen with eleven little chicks.

She immediately asked her mother from where the chicks came and was told the little "banty" had hatched them. And Blanche said:

"Oh, mother, wasn't she a good little thing. I think we should give her an all-day sucker."

Blanche is usually told that if she will be good she will receive an all-day sucker.

War on Japanese Beetles

The Agricultural department has started a new and vigorous campaign to eliminate the Japanese beetle menace in the United States. Motion picture films depicting the life and habits of the injurious insect have been distributed by the government over the entire country. It shows farmers how to spray to prevent beetle damage, the treatment of turf so as to kill grubs and the benefits of quinine to prevent its spread. Scattered here in the soil ten months of the year, but the other ten months they attack crops voraciously. One feature of the federal movie shows 200 beetles attacking one apple.

COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Croumulsion, an emulsified crocodile that is pleasant to take. Croumulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, crocodiles is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Croumulsion contains, in addition to crocodile, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocodile goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Croumulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Croumulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

For Growing Children

Contains the valuable muscle and bone forming elements found in the grain and whole milk. Makes happy, robust children. Nutrition and easily assimilated. Prepared of Horlick's by stirring the powder in hot or cold water. No cooking.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Less volume, less distance, more noise, but with strong local stations good and giving good programs, is the history of last night on the radio as compared with the night before. An S. O. S. shortly after 7 caused some of the stations to shut down for about 15 minutes. A chattering sound all over the dial served to blanket most stations until 9:30, when with the suddenness of the turning off of a switch it stopped. This sound prevailed last winter and was generally attributed to static—but you cannot turn static off by throwing a switch.

While available stations were few bloopers, as ever under these conditions, were many and their squeals proclaimed the agony of mind felt by seekers after the impossible.

Southern stations were weak, but the north was unusually strong, especially CKAC.

Twenty-one stations throughout the East and Middle West will broadcast the World's Series baseball games. Following is the list: WBAF (except Sunday), WJZ, WGY, WRC (except Sunday), WCAE, KDKA, WSAI, WLW, WCCO, WEEI, WTAC, WJAR, WTIC, WWJ, KSD, WDAF, WMAQ, WLS, KYW, WGN and WEBB. Games in New York are scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, and games in St. Louis at 2:30 p. m., Eastern standard time. Broadcasting will start fifteen minutes before the opening of each game.

Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, and the Fluke Jubilee Singers, with the support of a twenty-two-piece symphony orchestra, will be heard Sunday October 3, at 10:15 p. m. in the opening of a series of ten concerts which will be broadcast each Sunday night by WJZ, WRC, WGY, WBZ and KDKA.

In addition to WBAF, WJAR, WTAC, WGR, WLIT, WRC, WSAI and KSD will broadcast the address of President Calvin Coolidge in connection with the convention of the American Red Cross in Washington at 8:15 p. m., Monday, October 4.

Flashy Clothes Worn in Shakespeare's Time

The gallants of Shakespeare's time vied with the belles in their love of dress. The men favored red, blue or green velvet created with gold. Their hair they clipped closely, but cultivated their beards, which invariably were trimmed to a point, and mustaches were in favor.

In the early Tudor period broad-toed shoes, which in slushes and puddles vied with the doublets worn, were much in favor and in the matter of head-dresses the women shared with the men the use of the alighted milan bonnets of varied and vivid colors, says Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the Standard Dictionary. Wigs were in favor with the women and, perched high upon maidenly or matronly head, might be seen fair-haired wigs of huge proportions—red being the favorite hue, presumably in honor of her majesty the virgin queen.

Small wonder, then, that occasional peeps at the tiny looking-glass that dangled from the belt were necessary to see that this ornate structure was properly set in place. Tradition has it that to this practice the language owes the common expression, "Is my hat on straight?"

Franklin as America's First "Song Plagger"

America's original "song plagger" and music publisher was none other than Benjamin Franklin. Furthermore, the songs were his own compositions, for the statesman, inventor, printer, diplomat, philosopher and educator also was a composer and all-round musician. History has it that the allegro-tempo drinking song, "Fare ye well, words and music of which were written by Franklin, often was sung by him in the half-fellow-well-met atmosphere of the Junto clubrooms, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. On many an evening the sonorous voice of Franklin was heard in chorus with his friends. He was an orthodox believer in correct tempo in music and it is not hard to imagine him tapping time on the table of the club-room. He not only wrote songs, but set them into type and proceeded to hawk them through the streets, thus proving himself a pioneer sales promoter. Franklin developed the harmonica or glassy chord. He also was a talented performer on the harp, guitar and violin.

Wills Reveal Character

The "ruling spirit" very often shows up strongly in that intensely human document—a man's will. As often as not one can sum up the strength or weakness of his character clearer, by means of his "last testament," than by any other document.

To attempt to trace the origin of will-making would be a thankless task, but it is known that the prophet Jacob left a document more or less equivalent to the modern will. Specimens have been found in Egyptian tombs which were drawn up 2,000 years before Christ. Among the oldest English wills are those of Alfred the Great and William the Conqueror, who bequeathed his newly acquired realm of England to his son William Duke.

In the News from Near and Far

HARRY F. SINCLAIR

ASA G. CANDLER

PRINCESS JOACHIM

L.C. PHIPPS

The Circuit Court of Appeals decided that Harry F. Sinclair was not entitled to the Teapot Dome oil fields, the centre of a Government scandal three years ago. Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, was seriously ill. Princess Joachim, of Prussia, daughter-in-law of the ex-Kaiser, was married to Baron Hans von Leon. Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee, proclaimed prosperity as party's plank in coming elections.

IRISHMAN RULES ON
"ISLAND OF WOMEN"

Former Rail Worker Worshipped by Subjects.

"The Island of Women," in the South seas, is one of the strangest of all monarchies. Its inhabitants comprise few men and many women, so that the native women constantly are involved in a struggle to win husbands, making polygamy expedient.

The monarch is an Irishman, possessed of a long red beard and a name typical of his ancestral country—Michael O'Shaughnessy, says Robert Dean Fribble in Wide World.

"King Mike," as he is widely known, was a section hand on the Southern Pacific railway in California when his attention was attracted by a picture in a newspaper of a beautiful South Sea Island girl and he embarked for Papete.

O'Shaughnessy had heard of the mysterious Island of Women where men are so few that they are worshipped by the women, and he made it his objective when later he left Tahiti aboard a small trading schooner.

Ships engaged in trading in the South Pacific seldom visit the Island of Women and those that do put into the deep-locked lagoon which serves as the island's port seldom leave for some time. Life for the sailors is easy and luxurious and it is infrequent that the captains of such vessels do not have to resort to trickery to lure members of their crews away from the native women, who idolize all men.

O'Shaughnessy was the second white man to take up his home on the Island of Women, the first having been a veteran of the World war who went there on a trading ship he had boarded without knowing its destination.

The future King Mike went to the island with a determination to become its monarch, but little did he surmise that it would be his bright red beard which would cause the old native king to abdicate in his favor. The women were deeply impressed by the young American's beard and they came to regard him as being a sort of a deity.

"I found Mike in his luxurious town palace (he also has a simple little villa up one of the valleys, and a more pretentious bamboo abode on the cliffs)," says Mr. Fribble reviewing his visit.

"Greatness, it appeared, had been thrust upon him. When the people heard his full baritone voice, saw him dance an Irish jig, and felt the red bristles on his broad chin, he was accepted as a superman and regarded as the equal of the native king. But when he took unto himself six wives and later as he became familiar with the language, preached the doctrine of polygamy as he saw it, the old king abdicated and Mike ascended to the throne."

Valuable Dust

A fan effectively collects the filings and grindings in a shop where valuable metals are worked, and saves the portion usually lost in the cracks in the floor. The electric motor and controller operate the grinding wheel. At the left is a small motor-operated exhaust fan which draws the particles into a funnel-shaped opening, placed as near the work as possible. This discharges into a sack on the floor.

The simplicity of this arrangement and the savings resulting from its use recommend it highly wherever precious or semi-precious metals are worked.

Most jewelers do not heed the arrangement because the saving would be too small, but manufacturers have found the investment paid beyond all expectations.

Horse Still Holds Place

The American horse was for 200 years the sole means of inland travel and the great essential to all business in and between the various colonies made him a driving force and none of the inventions of modern times, from the introduction of railroads to bicycles and horseless vehicles generally, has affected his popularity or his value. To the superficial observer it would appear as if improved means of vehicular transport would diminish the breeding of horses as well as decrease their value, but thus far such has not been the case. Good horses have a higher value than ever, and as the demand for cheap or poorly bred horses diminishes, the better bred ones survive.

POULTRY

SELECTING FEEDS
FOR LAYING HENS

In choosing a feed for the hen flock four things should be considered: First, the digestibility; that is, how much of it may be used to suit the purposes for which it is intended, or how much of it will actually be of value in supplying body needs and building eggs. Second, the composition; that is, the amount of protein, carbohydrates, fats, ash and water which are the real food materials used by the body. Of these, protein is the most valuable, and protein feeds are usually more expensive. Carbohydrates and fats rank second in food value. Third, the palatability; whether or not the bird likes the feed and will eat readily. Fourth, the wholesomeness or cleanliness of the feed; moldy, musty or dirty feed should not be fed. Hence good feed for the hen is easily digested, contains protein, carbohydrates, fat, ash and some water and is palatable.

The ration which is to be used should depend largely upon the material which you have at hand, but you should see that the hen has what feed she needs for the manufacture of eggs. Unless your hens have all the milk they can drink do not leave out the meat scraps in your dry mash and expect them to lay well. A good ration for many flocks is:

Dry Mash.

One part corn meal by weight, 1 part ground oats, 1 part bran, 1 part shorts, 1 part meat scraps or fat scraps, 1 pound fine table salt to 100 pounds mash.

Scratch Feed.

Two parts cracked corn by weight, 1 part wheat, 1 part oats, barley, clover or kafir corn & a mixture of these feeds.

Aside from the dry mash and scratch feed, the hen should always have access to green feed and minerals, if expected to do her best. Sprouted oats, mangels, cabbage or beets make exceptionally good green feeds. Oyster shells mixed with charcoal are very good to keep before the hens at all times. This mixture should be kept in a small hopper where litter will not be scratched into it. Always see that your dry mash is well mixed, and that it is before the hens at all times in a self-feeder or container which is high enough to prevent litter getting into the container. The scratch feed for chickens that are confined should always be placed in litter so they will have to work to get it.

Fight Poultry Diseases

by Timely Prevention

The best way to combat poultry diseases is to prevent them. Insanitary conditions about the poultry house, poor living conditions, damp floors, cold drafts and other faults that easily may be corrected, are predisposing factors toward disease. One of the first things to do after these things are looked after properly is to isolate any sick bird that may appear in the flock.

"The poultry industry is rapidly growing," says Prof. R. S. Dearstyne of the poultry department at North Carolina State college. "This increase is noticed not only in the larger number of poultrymen but also in the intensity of production. With an increase of birds on the farm comes an increased disease hazard and the most successful method of combating these diseases is to prevent them from occurring."

Professor Dearstyne states that autumn weather usually marks outbreaks of seasonal diseases such as pox, roup, poultry typhoid, contagious bronchitis and pneumonia. The yearly mortality among domesticated birds from these diseases is very large and is usually caused by the owner allowing such diseases to become well established before taking steps to combat them.

Save Early Cockerels

Now is the time to find the fathers for your next year's chicks, say Pennsylvania State college poultry specialists. These potential parents should be selected from fairly early hatchings. Do not disgrace the poultry yard by saving weak, late-hatched males. Pick out twice as many "early birds" as you think you will need, so that a heavy culling can be made late in the fall.

Poultry Notes

In poultry production, the breed is not so important as the breeding.

Feather picking among hens is associated with over-crowding and lack of sufficient range, sunshine and air.

To have the laying nests full of broody hens is a fine way to reduce the labor of carrying a full egg basket.

Getting rid of the hens now that are through laying will save labor and feed, and the others will do better because of being less crowded.

Hens used, preferably from 2 to 4 per cent of the flock, is one of the "big clues" for the chicken, the Ohio experiment station has found.

Well-dressed hens—easy, if possible—but in any case, a stepping stone, should be selected for the poultry house and yard. Pump out ground beneath them.

Nutmeg Production

The nutmeg is the pit or kernel of a fruit which, when ripe, looks something like a small peach. The pulp of this fruit is quite important to the taste. Inside the pulp is a red flesh known as mace—one of the most popular spices known to modern cookery. When you taste a dish flavored with mace you will know that you are eating what was once the soft red covering of a nutmeg. Nutmeg trees properly located and well cared for are remarkably prolific. In one year a single tree has been known to produce more than 2,000 nutmegs. The nutmeg blossom is white, bell shaped, and so fragrant as it is beautiful.

Grand Instrument

It is to be hoped that we shall always have a few artists in music; otherwise we shall soon have an English language which will be as inferior to the English of the last century as the Greek of London is to the Greek of Plato. We have a grand instrument, which is the hands of 240,000 or 250,000 people, which is the grand instrument of human speech; but, like everything else, it needs keeping in repair, especially in a building age when everyone reads and writes in a hurry. ## COMPENSATION FOR VETERANS' FAMILIES

Enactment by congress at its session recently closed of the Green bill amending the Adjusted Compensation act will make it possible for dependent relatives of more than 25,000 dead veterans to obtain from the government over a period of the next four years the sum of nearly $12,000,000.

These dependent relatives have hitherto been unable to receive compensation for the death of these men because they had found it impossible to prove to the satisfaction of the government under a strict interpretation of the law made by the comptroller general that they had actually been dependent on the men in the military forces of the country.

A large proportion of those who will benefit by the Green bill, which embodied recommendations for changes in the Adjusted Compensation act suggested by the American Legion, are mothers and fathers of men killed in action.

Under the interpretation placed by the government on the original act, these mothers and fathers had been required to submit long and humiliating affidavits as to their financial condition in order to collect compensation. Many of them, according to Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, who had an especially active part in obtaining passage of the changes in the law, preferred to undergo hardships rather than submit to this humiliation.

Other benefits to veterans and their dependents from the Green bill will bring the total amount obtained in their interest up to some $18,500,000. This sum is exclusive of the cost of an amendment authorizing payment of $60 cash in a lump sum to dependents or beneficiaries of men killed in action or deceased before discharge.

At the end of the war a $80 bonus was paid to all men in the military forces upon discharge. When the Adjusted Compensation act was passed it was provided that this amount should be deducted from the total which would otherwise have been due the veteran. The law was general in its terms in this clause and no exception was specifically provided for in the cases of men who, dying before discharge, had never received their bonus. The amendment now enacted remedies this injustice to their dependents, which resulted from an extremely literal reading of the law by the government.

Widows of veterans who died between May 19 and July 1, 1924, without making application for compensation may now apply in their stead, under the Green bill. Two thousand women are expected to benefit by this provision at an estimated cost to the government in excess of $1,000,000.

Payment of $240,526 in 358 cases where a veteran died while his compensation application was in the mail was authorized.

Claims of $106,396 on account of indebtedness to the United States were forgiven to 1,800 veterans.

Big Community Meet at Gardiner

the disease by administering toxin anti-toxin and she gave statistics showing the disease had not visited that city since the preventative was used. Mrs. Harrison also described the administering of the toxin anti-toxin and said that it was not a preventative that made the person feel ill after being administered.

Farm Bureau Benefits.

Assemblyman Millard Davis was the next speaker and told of the benefits of being a member of the Farm Bureau. He explained that the efforts of the organization were to make the county a better place in which to reside and told of the desire of the authorities to have every farmer join the Ulster County Farm Bureau. He said application may be made at any time and suggested that now was the best time to join as in the spring every one would be busy and it would be of advantage to join at once and save both the time of the canvassers and the farmers.

Farm Help of Every Kind.

Farm Bureau Manager Wigsten read communications from members asking information. He commended this step and said that was what the organization was for, to help the farmer, and requested that more agriculturists present their problems to the bureau and assured them that the organization would be anxious to help solve them. He told them he had recently been through the county with Professor Goodman, who is an expert on the arrangement of barns and also on draining water from the land that was detrimental to the farm. Mr. Wigsten told how much work and time this expert could save the farmer if he would only apply for his assistance which was rendered free of charge. One example of help he rendered was on a farm where a large water spot had to be drained off and by applying his level and studying conditions he was able at once to inform the owner as to the proper direction in which to dig a drain and set his tiles. The formation of a calf club would have great effect in keeping the boys on the farm. Mr. Wigsten said, as it would create an interest. He suggested that each farm boy be given a calf and made to keep a record of his upkeep and when he was old enough to sell, that the boy be given the returns to deposit in a bank and thus teach him to save as well as work for profit on the farm.

Mrs. LeFevre Receives Cooker.

Mrs. Louis LeFevre was probably the happiest woman at the meeting as she was awarded a handsome electric cooker by winning first place in the contest conducted by the State Home Bureau and the American Agriculturist. She wished to share her honors with her sister members and attributed her success to being urged to enter the contest by the members of the Ulster County Home Bureau.

Dance Tonight At K. of C.

Preparations have been completed for the autumn dance to be held this evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Broadway and Andrew street. The dance is being conducted by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, and the public is cordially invited to attend. The Imperial Broadcasting Orchestra will supply the music.

The only way a man can escape criminals nowadays is to get himself locked up.

Highest Duty of Man, to "Serve the World"

Life is an endless quest, and its meaning is determined by what we are looking for. It is not necessary that we shall find what we seek, arrive at a predestined goal and be able to assure ourselves and the world triumphantly that the thing we have attained is exactly what we always wanted. What matters greatly is that we shall continue to strive and move onward. It has been wisely said that it is better to travel hopefully than to arrive. And "a man sits as many risks as he runs."

But a mere restlessness does not make a lifetime noble and fruitful. Curiosity though limitless and unappeased, of itself produces nothing. We have too much with us those who wish to be electrified continually by the tingling shock of fresh thrills and sensations, though the reaction leaves them spent. They seem to believe the world was made to amuse them; they are onlookers at a play, strollers through a museum, perpetual guests at a feast of bounty and of beauty, whoever remains outside and uninvited.

They need a vision; and it is forever true that "where there is no vision the people perish." They need to see that the world, though made for each of us, as Browning said, was made that we might serve it and not merely use it; might give to it and not simply take therefrom, and might add by the contribution of our telling lives and thinking minds to the sum total of the truth and goodness that we found when we came here. Of little avail is the quest if the outcome is but treasure-trove that we put by for ourselves; and we are bound by the fact of our humanity as well as by our inheritance of the divine to remember always that "the best things any mortal hath are those that every mortal shares."—Philadelphia Ledger.

ROOSEVELT'S OPINION

"A NY man who signs a pledge that he will not enlist or volunteer in the army or navy in the event of war should be promptly disfranchised and then should be sent to the front to dig kitchen sinks, bury dead horses and do other jobs which would relieve brave men of the unpleasant but necessary hard work of a campaign. Pacifists and poltroons would be made of some small use to their country. At present they are none."

That is the opinion, voiced with characteristic vigor, which the late President Theodore Roosevelt expressed of signers of "dicker oaths" and "no-more-war pledges."

It was written in a letter to Mrs. Russell MacLennan, now president of Redondo unit of the American auxiliary at Redondo, Calif. The letter, breathing the fiery spirit of the Rough Rider President, is carefully preserved by Mrs. MacLennan.

ARMY OFFICERS TAUGHT BY MAIL

Correspondence School for Reserve Military Service Proves Success.

Washington.—A "West Point correspondence school" is now run by the United States army to train reserve officers for duties they may be called upon to assume in time of war. There has been nothing like this in the previous history of the country; there is nothing like it anywhere else. More than 23,000 men took the course last year, most of them reserve officers, who knew that their civilian training was inadequate for regular field work. Many took them for promotion to a higher rank in the reserves.

The credit for the inauguration of correspondence school courses to train reserve officers is given to General Pershing. When the United States entered the war, it was found that the ranks of reserve officers were very small. To meet the exigencies of the situation, officers were created overnight. Brokers became infantry officers; doctors, medical officers; chemists, ordnance officers; newspaper men, intelligence officers; architects, field officers, and so on down the line. Wherever possible, a man was put into the branch of service for which his civilian activities most fitted him.

Civilian activities, no matter how brilliant, are not, however, sufficient to insure good military service. The newly created officers, it is true, in most cases, received short, intensive training at the various camps throughout the country, but that was not enough. If regular army officers and the newly-created officers lost their temper with each other it was not surprising.

Pershing Suggests Them.

After the war was over, the urgent need of reserve officers ended. But the experience of men high in rank made them get to work on a solution of the problem of training reserve officers who would know something of their duties and the duties of the army in general when they were called upon for service. General Pershing suggested the correspondence schools.

In 1921, the first correspondence courses were issued by the War Department. Several months beforehand, reserve officers who had fought in the war had been circulated and asked whether they were interested. Many answers were in favor of the idea. The courses started with 500 students.

The defense forces of the United States are divided into three groups—the regular army, with officers trained at West Point; the National Guard, with National Guard schools and training quarters, and the reserves. Apart from the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' military training camps, to which men go for short periods, the reserves had no schools where officers could get the special technical training required for efficient service in the branch in which they enrolled.

Today the correspondence schools are making up that lack. There are nine corps areas in the United States, each with its own commander.

Courses in Eighteen Branches.

Every corps area is giving these courses to men within its boundaries. At present courses in eighteen branches of army service have been developed. They are the adjutant general's department, the air service, the cavalry, the chaplain's service, the chemical warfare, the coast artillery, the engineers, the field artillery, the finance department, the infantry, the judge advocate's office, the medical department, the military intelligence, the military police, the ordnance, the quartermaster corps, the signal corps, the command and general staff.

Branch schools are located in various sections of the corps area.

The United States has various service schools where regular army officers go for specialized post-graduate work. The infantry has a school at one place, the cavalry at another, the artillery at a third, the air service at a fourth and so on for every branch of military work. Each school is in charge of experts. It is these men who are writing the text of the correspondence courses. Some of them are complete at present, giving courses starting with lessons for civilians who want to enter the reserve corps as second lieutenants, and ending with the highest rank in the reserves. Other courses are still in the making.

To be eligible to take the correspondence-school courses a man may be a member of the reserve officers' training corps or the citizens' military training camp. He may be a member of the National Guard who wants to educate himself in some special branch of service with no thought of becoming a reserve officer. He may be a regular army officer on detached duty of a nature to preclude his receiving instruction through other agencies. He may be a citizen who qualifies for training without definite preparation for reserve work.

How the Plan Works.

An outline of one branch of service will show what is being done in all. A chemical engineer, let us say, is interested in becoming an officer in the ordnance department. He may have had service in the war, he may have been with the reserve officers' training corps or the citizens' military training camp. In any case, to become a first or second lieutenant he must possess a knowledge of military fundamentals. A basic officers' correspondence course gives him instruction in organization and methods of administration of the ordnance department. The subjects he takes are: (1) organization of the army; (2) administration, discipline and courtesies; (3) ordnance engineering; (4) military hygiene and first aid; (5) map reading; (6) general information on ordnance; (7) property accounting;

(8) ordnance provisioning system; (9) military law; (10) commercial law. Each subject has a number of lessons, at the completion of which a correspondence examination is given. When the work is completed satisfactorily the man gets a certificate of proficiency, which exempts him from taking any further examination to show he qualifies. He gets his rank as second lieutenant or first lieutenant and is sent to a training camp for 15 days where he works out in practice the theories that he learned in his course. All reserve officers must put in at least 15 days of practical army training before they get a new rank.

How to Become Captain.

A lieutenant in the ordnance reserves who has passed this stage of his military career can now prepare to become a captain in one of the three branches of ordnance. They are ammunition, depot, maintenance. If it is our hypothetical chemical engineer, he may choose the ammunition service. Twelve subjects will complete his course and qualify him for promotion to the rank of captain. These subjects are: (1) ammunition depot organization; (2) ammunition depot administration; (3) ordnance provisioning system; (4) transportation of explosives; (5) storage, surveillance and maintenance; (6) demolition; (7) ammunition supply regulation; (8) supply in the zone of the interior; (9) supply in the theater of operation; (10) tactical employment of ammunition companies; (11) the army corps; (12) the field army.

A man preparing to become captain in the maintenance branch of ordnance will get a different series of subjects, as follows: (1) shop administration; (2) methods of machine shop work; (3) field maintenance; (4) maintenance regulations; (5) small arms and automatic weapons; (6) and (7) artillery material; (8) automatic equipment; (9) tanks and tractors; (10) tactical employment of the ordnance company.

The depot department has still other subjects. In every instance a certificate of proficiency issued by the correspondence school will qualify a man for promotion. Fifteen days at an ordnance camp, where he is taught to use his knowledge of the specific duties of an ordnance captain, complete his training.

Attaining Rank of Major.

An advanced course in ordnance trains a man for the rank of major. An ordnance captain preparing for promotion will take courses in combat orders and the solution of supply and maintenance problems, and the duties of division, corps, army and general headquarters ordnance officers. Majors also go out for their practical training of 15 days for the completion of their work.

Training for ranks in the command and general staff is the same for all majors in all branches of the service. It consists of the highly technical work connected with staff offices. Correspondence courses are given in all of the subjects for this work.

What is done for a man preparing for the officers' ranks in the ordnance department is done for the 17 other branches of the army. An infantry officer, for instance, will get courses in platoon management when he trains for lieutenant, courses in company management when he trains for the rank of captain, courses in battalion management when he is preparing to become a major. A man may go just as fast as he is able when he takes the courses. He must, however, meet a minimum of 30 hours of work a year. Each lesson is credited with a certain number of hours. A student need not take all the subjects in his course. When he takes a course for information only he may choose what subjects he wants. If he is fitting himself for promotion, he takes what new subjects he needs and submits to a test on the others.

All of the regular officers connected with the correspondence school are heartily in favor of it. Their experience with men who had technical knowledge of civilian subjects but were ignorant on military matters has shown them the need of training reserve officers in time of peace. At present there are approximately 90,000 reserve officers in the United States. The correspondence courses add to their number all the time. In time of war these men will step out of the civilian ranks and take their positions as lieutenants, captains, majors or staff officers, with the same duties and pay as officers in the regular army.

New Rejuvenation Method Being Tested in Vienna

Vienna.—A Viennese doctor claims to have discovered a new treatment which rejuvenates those to whom it is applied and states that he has already applied it to several people in a local nursing home.

The treatment consists in brushing the main arteries with a solution of phenol. The effect of this is to do away with nervous contractions and to restore perfect circulation of the blood, thus avoiding recourse to operations which always are accompanied by certain risks.

So far application of the treatment has been made only to men patients, but experiments with it are to take place soon on women in one of the nursing homes of the Austrian capital.

Earliest Cook Stove

Vermont was introduced to the cook stove in the fall of 1870 when the first Vermont stove was cast, and in a brief period the fireplace, with its smoldering coals of pine and hemlock, disappeared. The new stove was the product of John C. Brown, of Brandon, Vt. Its cast-iron body was made directly from the brown hematite ore of the immediate region. Today, there remains apparently no sign of a Vermont stove anywhere. It is believed by some of the old residents about Brandon that the early stove had an elevated oven and stood on three legs.—Rutland (Vt.) Herald.

TUBERCULOSIS IS SPREAD BY HENS

The transmission of fowl or avian tuberculosis through the egg is a negligible factor in spreading the disease, according to the results of extensive experiments conducted by Dr. C. F. Fitch, division chief, and R. E. Lubbehen and Ruth N. Dikmann of the veterinary medicine staff at University farm, St. Paul, Minn. The experiments have been running about a year and the experimenters have so far examined nearly 800 eggs laid by about 40 known tuberculous hens affected with various forms of the disease. Many of the eggs were examined by inoculation into the bodies of chickens and many others have been cultured. None of the birds, or a few animals so inoculated, has as yet developed tuberculosis.

"These results would seem to indicate," say the authors, "that tubercle bacilli are not usually transmitted through the egg and that the danger in this manner is not great."

Tuberculosis among chickens is especially frequent in Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Wisconsin. Close housing necessary in winter months contributes to the spreading of infection. Tuberculosis in farm flocks becomes significant because of its relation to the tuberculosis of cattle and swine. In 21 out of 25 cases examined by a Nebraska station veterinarian it was found that tuberculosis of swine was contracted from barnyard fowls. Experiments have also shown that the skin form of tuberculosis of cattle may be produced by the fowl or avian type.

Late Built Houses Are Liable to Cause Ills

Many poultrymen are finding that poultry houses built too late in the fall are apt to result in colds and roup.

Before the birds, especially pullets, are put in a new poultry house the floor as well as the lumber used in construction must be thoroughly dry. A house built of seasoned lumber during the month of August has ample time for drying out before the birds are put into their winter quarters.

The essentials of a good poultry house are dryness, as this prevents colds and roup; fresh air, which keeps the birds in good health, sunlight, nature's best disinfectant, and floor space so that during confinement the birds will have room to exercise.

For the best results a poultry house should be built for units of 200 birds. This requires a house 20 by 40 feet. It should face southward and should be located on high, dry ground, and where it gets some shelter. Glass windows on the east and west sides with curtain windows in the front will allow all the sunlight and fresh air that the birds require.

Protection of the flock against draft and seasonal changes of weather and climate is the purpose of a poultry house. For New Jersey conditions, the New Jersey multiple unit laying house gives best results. The plans for this house are given in Circular 152 of the New Jersey Experiment station, New Brunswick, N. J., which can be obtained free on application.

Good Poultry Business to Cull Out Nonlayers

Just as a good business proposition those hens that are not laying at this time of the year should be culled out of the flock and sold. They have probably finished their year's work and will eat expensive feed and use valuable house room the rest of the year. The poor-laying hen at this time of the year is lazy, overfat, probably beginning to molt, and has bright yellow coloring left in her legs and beak. If she is of the yellow-skinned breeds. On the other hand, the good layer is always active, looks healthy, and will not molt until late in the fall, and has put the yellow from her skin into the yolks of all the eggs she has laid.

Any flock owner can cull hens by these indications. If he does not have confidence in his ability to do a good job of culling he can shut his cull-up for a few days and see if they lay any eggs.

Good House for Geese

In order to make a success of goose raising the house should be on the ground. A building up off the ground would be much too dry. The goose house does not need to be expensive. Ordinary rough lumber which is battened on the outside would be quite suitable. Earth should be thrown in to the house so as to make the floor at least six inches—or, better, one foot—above the level of the ground outside. The eggs should be collected as soon as laid.

Depluming Mites

Hens are sometimes troubled with scabies, or depluming mites, which bite the skin at the base of the feathers and finally cause a loss of plumage. Mix four parts lard with one part flowers of sulphur, and rub this ointment on the parts where feathers are lacking. A loss of feathers around the back is sometimes caused by an infestation of the male birds. Wash the bare parts with commercial disinfectant solution may prove useful in destroying depluming mites.

Grant Railroad Builder

Henry Rogers, a San Francisco financier who failed in 1904, went to Chile and later to Peru, and proved a great success in railway construction. His greatest work was the Arica railroad over the Andes.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Bullish enthusiasm ran rampant in today's stock market as the restraint imposed by fears of an increase in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate, was removed for at least another week. Although call money rates were relatively higher, and are likely to continue so until after the middle of the month, operators on the long side felt confident that no serious credit stringency was in sight.

Prices were marked up in all sections of the list, with the result that more than a score of issues were elevated to their highest prices of the year. U. S. Steel common touched 153, or more than ten points above the recent low, and General Motors sold close to 166, a record price for the present stock. Other motors did not participate in the advance. Mack trucks and Chrysler showing traces of heaviness.

Coppers took on a new lease of life on recurrent rumors of early increases of $1 annually in the present dividend rates on Kennecott and American Smelting. Kennecott, Miami, and Nevada coppers touched new 1926 peak prices. Most of the public utilities pointed upward.

High grade rails moved upward

Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, averaging about 100,000 shares an hour above those of yesterday.

interment in the Port Ewen Cemtery.

Mrs. Mary Van Luyken, widow of James Van Luyken, died at her home No. 265 Wall street, Thursday evening after a long and active life.
For many years she had been an active member of the First Dutch Church and deeply interested in the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.
She was also a member of the Lowell Club of this city. Mrs. Van Luyken was a woman who was held in high esteem by all who knew her. She is survived by one son, Cornelius Van Luyken of Wilmington, North Carolina. Her husband at one time was a trustee of the Ulster County Savings Institution and a director of the State of New York National Bank.
Funeral from the late residence on Monday at 11 a. m. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Trooper Paid to Quit Hall Case

Amidst Secured From State Trooper, Claiming He Was Paid to Leave New Jersey. Considered Too
Sensational to Publish in Full Somerville, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP).—
Henry L. Dickman, a state trooper who was the last investigator into the Hall-Mills murder at the first inquiry four years ago, claims that he was paid a large sum to leave
New Jersey. It is asserted by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson.

Dickman's claim is made in an amfavit, secured yesterday, which Mr. Simpson considers "too sensational to publish in full."

The former state trooper was located in an army disciplinary barracks in San Francisco, and was brought to Governor's Island for questioning. He arrived at the Atlantic branch of the disciplinary barracks as a prisoner a few days ago.

Dickman is said to have become an even more important witness for the state than Mrs. Jane Gibson, on whose testimony the grand jury indicted Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brother, Henry and Willie Stevens, and their cousin, Henry Carpenter, for the murder of the New Brunswick rector and his choir leader four years ago.

"The whole story is entirely new,"
the prosecutor said. "I won't discuss the statement beyond saying that it is too sensational to be published in full. I have sent a copy of it to Inspector Underwood. I will not accept the responsibility for giving out the statement. If it comes out at all it must come from the police. In my opinion the story should come out in open court—from Dickman on the witness stand."

Inspector Underwood, questioned later concerning the amfavit, denied any knowledge of it.

"Dickman named the person or persons concerned in the payment of a large sum of money," Mr. Simpson said. "It was in cash. He gave us new names, but he did not name any new defendants. He gave us valuable information and new evidence which he had."

Lost Footing and Drowned in Creek

Ernest Haar 19 years old of 221 Fifty-fourth street, Brooklyn, was drowned in the Rondout creek off Hiltebrand's shipyard at Connelly shortly after 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The body was recovered and efforts to resuscitate Haar with the use of the police department lung-motor proved unavailing. The body was turned over to Stock & Cordts and will be forwarded to Brooklyn for funeral and interment.

Haar was employed by a concern that was having some work done at the Hiltebrand shipyard and Thursday afternoon while jumping from one boat to another he lost his footing and fell between the two boats, striking his head.

Workmen on the shipyard recovered the body shortly afterward.
Police headquarters were notified and the lungmotor was rushed to the scene in charge of Officers Burger and Leonard.

PORT EWEN.

A regular monthly meeting of the Port Ewen Library Association will be held on Monday evening, October 4, at 7:30 in the library on Broadway at Main street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold their annual chicken supper and bazaar in the Sunday school room October 27 and 28.

Mrs. Francis Elmendorf and Mrs.
Mabel Yease will be hostesses at a meeting of the Dorcas Society at the home of Mrs. Yease on South Broadway Monday evening, October 4.
This is the first regular meeting of the season, also the annual meeting for the election of officers. All the members are urged to be present.

There will be a special meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church at the home of Mrs.
Richard Hotelling, Wednesday afternoon, October 6, at 2:30 o'clock.

FAILS TO DARN HUSBAND'S SOCKS; HE MURDERS HER

Spouse Confesses to Slaying Woman for Neglect of Footwear.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—Without facial signs of emotion or expression of regret, Clayton Van Doran, twenty-three, Union Pacific railroad clerk, calmly confessed the murder of his wife, Elsie, twenty-five, at their cottage at Carter lake near here.

He killed her, he said, because she did not darn a pair of socks for him.
For four and a half hours he resisted the grilling of local police, protesting he did not know how his wife had been killed. But when a blood-stained shirt and handkerchief, found under the front seat of his automobile, were produced, Van Doran fell silent. With his head drooped, he answered no questions, nor uttered a word. Finally he looked up.

"Yes, that's mine," he said.

Then slowly, haltingly, but coming in detail, he told the story of the crime, and added at the end, that when he returned to his home with his aunt and saw the body.

"I put on the sob stuff then."

The aunt was Miss Grace Shearer of Davenport, Iowa, for whom Van Doran called at the home of another aunt, after the crime, and returned to his home.

Makes Signed Confession.

In a signed confession to local police and other officers, Van Doran said the murder was committed about nine o'clock in the morning. "We had a scrap about darning my socks," he related.

"I showed the socks to her and she made some remark about not caring to darn them."

"If you don't fix them some one else will," I told her. "Well, go ahead and get some one else," she told me.

"After this remark I hit her on the shoulder with my fist and knocked her down the first flight of the basement stairs. I followed, grabbed her by the throat and pulled her down the stairs."

"I beat her head against the bottom step corner for a while."

"Then I dragged her to the front door," he continued. "But I changed my mind and dragged her into the parlor. I took off my bloody shirt, wrapped it in my handkerchief in a newspaper, put on another shirt and got in my automobile and left."

Never Jealous of Her.

After driving to his aunt's home here Van Doran said he got Miss Shearer, another aunt, to accompany him to get his wife. He admitted that he knew his wife was dead when they entered the home.

Van Doran insisted that he had never had much trouble with his wife, although he admitted "shaking her up" on several occasions, and he maintained she was "not unfaithful, and he was never jealous of her."

"Biblical Barber" Bans Bobbed Hair in Shop

Lexington, Ky.—Declaring that "woman's hair is her crowning glory given her by God and must not be taken from her," James A. Lee, a barber of Lancaster, Ky., 35 miles south of here, has refused to bob women's hair and has earned for himself the sobriquet of "The Biblical Barber." As a consequence he has consistently and persistently refused to convert his barber shop into a "beauty shop."

Mr. Lee has been barbering for the last 15 years at Lancaster and enjoys a good business. He has an attractive shop within half a block of the courthouse square, on one of the principal streets of the town.

Bee Sting Fatal

Orting, Wash.—Stung on the chin by a honey bee while helping his brother shop down a bee tree near Rhodes lake, northeast of Orting, George Arnold, twenty-seven, died with in five minutes from the poison.

Falls Over Cliff

New York—Arthur Roth, sixty-two, fell over a 200-foot cliff. His body was found by a hiker on a mountain peak. He will recover, doctors said.

Gay-Feathered Birds Make Best Warriors

Gay birds are the hardy athletes of the feathered world according to a theory advanced by C. H. Henshaw, a London naturalist.

Male birds are forced to be dashing in beautiful order to attract the more sober-colored females. Mr. Henshaw explains. But a bird that wears scarlet, blue or orange feathers and that sings loudly and otherwise makes himself conspicuous, must be sturdy and alert if he is to survive long enough to establish a home and raise a family. He is as much a target for his enemies as the warrior who used to dash into battle wearing a red coat and riding a white horse.

How all this illustrates the old principle of the survival of the fittest is shown by Mr. Henshaw, who says:
"The better mate an animal can get,
the more chance its descendants will have of survival, and it is obvious that a male that has to face more danger and yet manages to survive has in all probability a greater capacity for keeping alive than one which lives through less danger."
Therefore the female that chooses a mate with a dangerous habit or structure chooses what is, aside from the dangerous part, a better and more fit mate.

This tends to raise the vitality of the bird species, he says, because the male bird's vitality is inherited by both sexes of his family, although his hazardous beauty is handed on only to his male descendants.—Science Service.

Excess of Gratitude Not a Common Fault

Gratitude, in many people, is only a strong and secret desire for further favors. I believe it was Goethe who wrote: "He who is not grateful for a favor may be likened to one who mud-dies the spring from which his thirst was quenched."

When gratitude, I heard another say, has become a matter of reasoning, there are many ways of escaping its bonds. This is only another manner of saying that he who expects gratitude is a merchant, not a benefactor. Gratitude, which the ancients always painted in the brightest colors, is one's duty, but it is not an inalienable right one is at liberty to exact.
Honore de Balzac, in probably one of his less lucid moments, wrote that gratitude was a foolish word; that, though appearing in the dictionary, it could never be found in the hearts.—
Frank Hanson, in Los Angeles Times.

Agreed With the Jury

A slightly deaf old man who had been making whisky all his life was finally picked up and arraigned under the drastic Colorado still possession law. The jury, without leaving the box, returned a verdict of guilty.
"Old man," said his lawyer, "the jury says you are guilty."

"Hay!"

"The jury says you are guilty," he repeated loudly in his ear.

"In what degree?"

"There is no degree in a still case."

"Guilty all over, then?"

"Yes."

"Hay?"

"Yes," shouted the lawyer.

"Well, that's what I told you in the first place, but you said you could clear me. With now I'd got that judge to defend me. Get him next time!"
Everybody's Magazine.

Rain and the Moon

Near the equator the position of the young moon never makes an angle of more than 30 degrees with the horizon, and it is generally in an even more nearly horizontal position, so that in a part of the world notorious for regions of heavy rainfall, the moon is, according to the proverb, always a "day" out. The fact of the moon being in the line of the equator is due to the fact that the moon is seen from the North and South poles, where it is always at the proverbial distance of "next" for at those places the line joining the top of the moon's disc makes an angle of less than 25 degrees to the vertical; yet the polar regions are characterized by a little precipitation in the form of rain and snow that the rank among the arid regions of the globe.

that the books that a man selects are a certain index to his temperament and mentality. "I've seen lawyers take out a silly love story, doctors pick up a mystery tale and happen-walk out with a cook book. This in itself means nothing. The flapper may only want a new candy recipe each leaf should fold like a new rising out of a ravine and be wet and soft like the earth newly swept by rain. Centuries ago a Japanese-named Rikyu founded the tea cult and wrote an elaborate code of tea el-

WOULD-BE ORATORS*Expert Gives Some Advice on Public Speaking."William Jennings Bryan was a great national figure not always because of what he said, but how he said it," declared R. E. Pattison Kline, public speaking expert at the Mid-West Organization school at Saugatuck, Mich., recently."The spoken word can be made 1,000 times more effective than the written word," said Kline, "because the speaker may convey ideas by his eyes, his body movements, his hands, and by the inflections in his voice.""Ability to speak effectively is the result of training. The first time Gladstone, the great orator, appeared in public his speech was a complete failure. He was blamed by the audience. He determined to make people respect his thoughts and began regular training by reading out loud and practicing his speeches many times before they were delivered.""Abraham Lincoln, likewise, became an effective speaker after long, arduous practice in speaking out loud in private. The first time he addressed an audience he was so ungainly both in speech and figure that people laughed at him. He became one of the most effective speakers of his day."Kline makes the following suggestions for effective speech:

Speak distinctly.

Make your speech attractive. Make it alive, active. Put pep into it. No one likes a dead one.Be positive. Adopt a note of authority.

Dominate your audience.

Learn to be direct. Talk to people, not at them.Be spontaneous and so full of your subject that the words pour out autently.Never use a comedy story, or joke, in a serious speech. Laughter and applause divert attention from what you are saying. Don't try to get applause if you want people to keep interested in what you are saying.Use plain language, short words, and be accurate in your choice of words. Profanity and coarse slang are detrimental to a good speech.Learn to speak from an outline.
Don't write out your speech unless necessary for press purposes.Answer the questions, who, where, what, why, how and when in your speaking.Divide your speech into introduction, discussion and conclusion, and make the introduction and conclusion very brief.Modulate your voice. Don't speak in a monotone.Don't talk too loudly; cultivate a resonant voice with tone quality.Look into the eyes of your audience and they will not see your gestures.Be aggressive. Lean toward your audience with one foot advanced and hands at the side when not making gestures.Epstein's SermonetteJacob Epstein, the noted American sculptor, is the idol of Bohemian London, and at a girls' tea party in a Chelsea studio he preached a characteristic little sermon."My text," he said, "is beauty.
Beauty is the rarest gift a girl can possess."The wisdom of Socrates is nothing beside a slim figure in a one-piece bathing suit."An arched foot and a round ankle are worth more to a girl in a short skirt than the culinary skill of Brillat-Savarin.""And to a girl in a sea wind all the virtues of the Pentateuch are nothing beside the natural curl in the hair."Lighting Up FirefliesWilliam Creighton of Princeton university has succeeded in "short-circuiting" fireflies so they will remain "lit." The scientist injected ad-renalin with a tiny syringe between the segments of the body of the insects. This caused muscular contraction which produced a continuous supply of oxygen to the light-producing cells. Creighton says that heavy doses of the adrenalin have kept individual fireflies "lit up" for an entire day.
Later, however, these insects died. It was found that lighter doses of the chemical produce from three to four hours of steady light.Upside Soles, Cork Welt Moccasins

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Advice from Dr. Winifred Stoner. "If women wish to succeed in any line of work, they should get married." Man is superior mentally, physically and economically, she argues, woman is superior spiritually and morally, and a combination of the five adverbs produce the highest results.

New York—Maurice and Eleanor Ambrose now receive $3,000 a week at a night club. They're married dancers.

New York—The Charleston and its latest version, the "Black Bottle," are making a lot of money for some physicians. One who has an office on fashionable Park avenue says produce the highest results.

that at least 30 per cent of his cases now are dislocated cartilage in the knee-joint. The patients are mostly women.

Valley, Wyo.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker would rather hunt elk than see Hornsby and Ruth in action, but nevertheless, they are taking a radio into the wilds with them.

Lincoln, Neb.—One of various reasons why Charles Dawes and Jack Pershing, who are hunting together, have been chums for years; each had to borrow a dress suit to get married in.

New York—Well, this guy Dempsey must be a regular fellow. Doctor offers first class alibi for him, namely that he prevented him from being in trim. But Jack insists that the better man won.

New York—Carolyn Wells should have some new material for her detective stories now. As the result of action by some of Uncle Sam's sleuths she had to pay $416 for failure to declare four gowns she brought from Paris.

Canine Wisdom

A story of extraordinary sagacity on the part of a sheep-dog was told at the inquest at Bewcastle, Cumberland, on Adam Waugh, a farmer, says the London Chronicle.

Mr. Waugh, who owned a high-lying farm at Low Todhills, Roadhead, among the lovely Bewcastle dells, had been to a neighboring farm, the Nook, and was returning home in the evening with his dog and cattle.

The dog arrived back at the Nook alone, bringing the cattle, and by its uneasy movements conveyed to the owner, Mr. Ewart, that something was amiss.

Mr. Ewart made search, and found his friend dead by the roadside of heart failure.

Tune in on This One

Mr. Hoople, who might be described as a "yes, my dear," was enjoying his pipe and radio concert in the front room when his storm-and-strife returned home from a lodge a trifle earlier than usual.

"Homer," she demanded idly, "have you been smoking in this room after all I've said?"

"Why—er—no, m'dear," stammered the head of the family, squirming to get away from the hot pipe in his pocket.

"Then what makes this room so smoky?"

"Well," offered her better half, "I had Pittsburgh awhile ago."—Toronto Gossip.

Spreading Disease

There are plenty of people who do not understand the precise difference between a contagious and an infectious disease. In the former case the disease is passed on by contact, direct or indirect. You may contract the disease by touching the person, or by touching something the person has touched. But in the latter case the air itself may become infected, and the disease may be "breathed into the system" by one who has never been near the original sufferer, or near any person or object the sufferer has touched. A proper understanding of these terms is necessary for one's self-protection.

Good Deal of Difference

An Irishman, married to a Scotch woman, took a woman friend of the family's out to lunch. Knowing that his wife was not of a jealous disposition, he mentioned the matter to her when he came home that evening. To his surprise she became angry. "But you sometimes go out to lunch with men who are our friends," protested the husband, "and I don't object. Now what is the difference between the two cases?" "The difference," snapped the wife, "is in the bill. In the one case you pay it; in the other case I have it."

RIZA KAHN

FRANK H. CONANT

MRS. WILLIAM C. DE MILLE

When inhabitants at Pisa, Italy, heard a report that Titta Ruffo founded an anti-Fascist paper in Brazil, they destroyed a memorial to his operatic appearances there. Several were arrested in a plot to slay Riza Kahn, Shah of Persia. Lieutenant Frank H. Conant, Navy ace, established a new plane record between New York and Hampton Roads, Va. Mrs. Anna George de Mille and William C. de Mille, playwright and movie director, were living apart in New York.

Men's Engagement Rings

At the time of her engagement, the modern young woman gives her fiancé a ring set with his birthstone, or the stone signifying the month of the eventful occasion, and engraved with their initials and the date of the engagement. It's an old custom—becoming more fashionable each day.

The discriminating woman will find here a most charming selection of exclusive designs.
